TSAR STALIN

Turning Point Came in 1917

By REBECCA WEST

Chapter V in a Series of Eight

In 1917, when the Tsardom fell, Stalin's luck turned. All political prisoners were freed, and he made his way to St. Petersburg, which he found in a state of chaos. A Liberal Provisional Government was battling for power with a leaderless Soviet (Council) of Workers and Peasants. Everybody was distraught, including the members of the Bolshevik Party.

Lenin was about to start on his journey from Switzerland through Germany, but he did not arrive for three weeks. During this period Stalin used his authority as a member of the Central Committee to bully his fellow-Bolsheviks into calm and coherence, and when Lenin got off the train he found the party ready for him to use as an instrument for seizing power.

For Lenin took no part whatsoever in overthrowing the Tsardom. That had all been done before Lenin returned to Russia. Nor is it true that he found a situation in which nobody but his party was able to assume his responsibility. What is true is that he applied the wrecking technique which he had perfected at many congresses to put out of action all other parties who might have taken power, but were at a disadvantage before him because they were thinking not of wrecking but of establishing national unity and a democratic Russia. Lenin rewarded Stalin for his services by making him commissar for nationalities to deal with the non-Russian peoples who had been absorbed by the imperialist Tsardom.

Stalin's Error of Judgment

Straightaway he ran into trouble. On Lenin's instructions he announced to the Finns, the Lithuanians, the Letts and the Estonians that now they could have their freedom. He and Lenin expected that these people would reject the gift and beg to be allowed to remain within a Socialist Russia.

But they did nothing of the sort. They thanked the Bolsheviks politely and settled down as sturdy independent and definitely anti-Socialist states.

Stalin never forgave them. Then civil war broke out in Russia. At Brest-Litovsk Lenin signed a humiliating peace treaty on terms dictated by the Germans, and many Russians took this as a sign of his incapacity to rule, though he could have done nothing else.

They rose against him, and again he could do nothing else but suppress the rising. Bolshevik conduct, however, passed outside the sphere of historical necessity, when an attempt was made on Lenin's life, and Stalin, now commissar at Tarsitsyn, sent a telegram promising to answer this attack by "the organization of open and systematic mass of terror against the bourgeoisie and its agents." He kept his word.

At Tarsitsyn a significant event occurred. He fell into a quarrel with Trotsky's policy of meeting the Red army's lack of officers by putting the troops under the control of Tsarist officers controlled by Bolshevik commissars. Stalin joined with some of his old "expropriator" friends in hankering after a guerrilla army. But Lenin had to support Trotsky, who had by now shown that he possessed great military genius.

Later on there came the war with Poland, in which Lenin made the same mistake he had made with the Finns and their neighbors and underrated national feeling. He sent the Red army deep into Poland, on the assumption that the Polish peasants would rush out and welcome them as deliverers. In the resultant disaster Stalin showed noticeable incompetence.

Three Points in His Favor

In 1919 Lenin founded a fantastic institution called the Commissariat of the Workers' and Peasants' Inspectorate, which was to reform the Soviet bureaucracy, which contained over half a million old Tsarist civil servants and naturally preserved the old Tsarist inefficiency. This was doomed to failure, since the staff appointed to reform the officials had necessarily to be officials themselves, but Stalin was plainly unable to avert this doom.

How, then, since Stalin showed to advantage in none of these posts, did he rise to the summit of the Communist hierarchy and in 1922 become general secretary of the party?

There are three reasons. First, it was a great relief to Lenin and the Politburo to know that they had a reliable Party officer, the Orgburo, which was a body in charge of the entire personnel of the Party. Also he turned the Workers' and Peasants' Inspectorate into a detective agency working on the civil service.

Thirdly, he obviously had a high survival value. It was true of him that he was literally a man who could keep his head when all about him were losing theirs and blaming it on him. In such a world as these people were making at this time, it is also probable that Stalin had never meant to leave Lenin in supreme command of the Soviet Union. We forget nowadays how far from being an old man Lenin was at the time of his death. He was only 32 years old.

It is, therefore, probably that when he arranged for Stalin to be General Secretary he looked forward to having many years of working-life before him, during which he would be able to exploit the usefulness of this tricky subordinate, while keeping him under control.

Lenin Sees Stalin's Power

This is suggested by the extremely painful incidents which occurred during the two years before Lenin's death in 1924.

It happened that there was a crisis in the relations between the Soviet Union and Georgia. The Georgians were still obstinately Menshevik, and held free elections at which the Bolsheviks polled less than a 4 per cent vote and were fiercely opposed to union with the Soviet Republic.

Stalin sent in the Red Army to teach them better, and when it had done its work sent in the

Expelled Rail Union Official Flays Mosher

OTTAWA, March 28 (CP)—James E. McGuire, expelled secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (C.B.R.E.), let fly today with a series of charges against A. R. Mosher, president of the C.B.R.E. and Canadian Congress of Labor.

McGuire, whose long feud with his president resulted in eviction from the C.B.R.E. this week, accused the veteran president of "treacherous action" against his membership in wage negotiations and, among other things, of:

"Lazy and ineffectual administration, wasteful and unwarranted use of funds, singular lack of any form of constructive leadership, collaboration with a clique to pay themselves substantial salary increases up to $90 per month without the knowledge of the membership..."

Allies Claim Reds Delay Just to Argue

MUNSAN, Korea, March 28 (AP)—An Allied trade negotiator said today the Communists appear to be "unnecessarily holding up the armistice just to argue."

Col. Don O. Darrow said arguments ranged from the key issue of whether Russia should help supervise a truce down to which words should identify United Nations forces and Korea.

There were indications staff officers would hand the Russia problem back to top-level military negotiators.

The Reds insist that Russia serve on a neutral inspection commission which would check troops and supplies moving into Korea during a truce. The Allies say Russia is unacceptable.

LOCAL WEATHER STOUTLY DEFENDED BY MAGISTRATE

Magistrate H. C. Hall handed down a decision on Vancouver weather in police court today. Unofficially, of course.

It followed a short parry between the magistrate and Vancouver lawyer, John Bird, and drew a hearty chuckle from the spectators' gallery.

Bird, in describing the weather on the night of the accident in which Mrs. Anne McCallum, 2285 Woodlawn, was involved, termed it a "drizzle."

Staunch defender of Victoria's famed sunshine, Magistrate Hall fired back with: "You have that in Vancouver, don't you?"

"Well, yes," replied Bird, and, shivering a little, added: "It's a little cold in here today."

The weather didn't improve much for Vancouverite Bird as the magistrate fined his client $35 on a careless driving charge.

URE HITS AT BEEF PRICE SUPPORT PLAN

Alberta Minister Critical of Federal Proposal to Establish Floor Prices

EDMONTON, March 28 (CP)—Agriculture Minister David Ure today sharply criticized a proposal to place a floor price on beef if the provinces drop restrictions on movement of livestock.

Federal officials indicated yesterday the government will place such a plan before the provincial agriculture ministers in Ottawa April 2.

Ure said he doubted such a plan could be effective in having interprovincial livestock sales lifted.

"British Columbia is able to keep its beef prices up without a floor price being set by the Dominion," he said. "If they keep our beef off the western market their prices naturally are going to remain high."

Alberta and Saskatchewan, he pointed out, have the most livestock to sell. These two provinces have no embargoes to take off.

"It's all right to agree to a horse trade if you have a horse to trade," he said.

Ure, who will attend the Dominion-provincial meeting in Ottawa, indicated he will not be accompanied by other members of the Alberta agriculture department.

"If all we are going to get is glorified public announcements, then 4,000 miles is far enough to go without taking anyone with me," he said.

Dollar at Full Cent Premium In New York

NEW YORK, March 28 (AP)—The Canadian dollar reached a full cent premium over the United States dollar today for the first time in 17 years.

Canadian currency in terms of the U.S. dollar rose to $1.01 at New York.

It has been hovering around par and a small fraction premium for the last few weeks. It closed Thursday night at $1.008125.

Behind the steady rise in the Canadian dollar is an equally steady increase in foreign investment in Canada, which has resulted in a greater demand for Canadian funds.

In Montreal the Canadian dollar reached a premium of 1.132 per cent at noon—the highest since 1935 when it was at 1 per cent premium. Back in 1914 the Canadian dollar rose to a premium of 2 per cent.

Johnson Says Will Attend Nominations

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., March 28 (BUP)—The nominating convention of the New Westminster Liberal Association will be held April 4, and Premier Byron Johnson has told the association president that he will attend.

The premier's decision is taken as assurance that Johnson will run for office in the forthcoming provincial election.

Party spokesmen said that Johnson's appearance at the nominating meeting would "scotch" rumors to the effect that he did not intend to seek re-election in New Westminster.

Red-Sponsored Iranian Riots Claim 5 Lives

Germ War Charge
Sparks Wild Mele

TEHRAN, Iran, March 28 (AP)—Bloody rioting erupted in Tehran today following a meeting sponsored by Communists to support Russian charges that the United States is using germ warfare in Korea. At least five persons, including a girl and two policemen were reported killed. One unconfirmed rumor said there were about 20 dead.

The violent 15-minute battle erupted when a small group of bitter anti-Communist Iranians jeered at 3,000 to 5,000 parading members of the organization for democratic youth, a front group of the outlawed, Communist-backed Tudeh party.

Police intervened, bloodying the heads of many of the Communist group. This group had met earlier, with police permission, in Fawzieh Square to support Russia's germ warfare charges. Then, shouting "Down With America" and praising Stalin, they began parading back toward the center of the city. The police had given no approval for a parade and called out reinforcements.

After the clash, police took truckloads of the wounded away to hospitals.

TUBBY HUBBY DIET

Tom Flays Halkett, Asserts Fast a Bust

By TOM MERRIMAN

Let's restore this scientific experiment in dieting to its proper place, from the ribald level where photographer Bill Halkett dragged it in two uncalculated incursions into territory where he had no right to trespass.

FINAL DAY DIET—Page 14

In the first place, as Halkett says, he's a photographer and not a news writer. So obvious the explanation was unnecessary.

For Halkett's unwarranted and abusive diatribes on the front page the last two days I blame Guild Steward as Halkett is not in the Newswriters Union and had no right in print.

I also have been advised that he brand a man publicly as a potential welsher on a bet, as Halkett branded me, is ground for libel.

If it were possible to make Halkett personally responsible, without embarrassing the city editor, who probably passed the item in a deadline rush, I would follow up the case.

So getting back to Josephine Lowman's 12-day diet—and getting off it tomorrow, thank heaven—I would like to say, in the last article I wrote on the subject, I hope Vance Hope,

P.U.C. Approves New Victoria Area Scale

By AILEEN CAMPBELL

Increased bus fares will go into effect in Greater Victoria April 6.

Public Utilities Commission today announced its unanimous decision approving application of the B.C. Electric Railway Co. for the increases.

Victorians will pay a straight 10 cent cash fare instead of the present three tickets for a quarter.

Here are the present and new urban fares for Greater Victoria.

Zone No. 1	Present	Proposed
Adult cash fare	10c	10c
Adult ticket fare	3 for 25c (8.33)	None
Children's cash fare	4c	5c
Children's ticket fare	8 for 25c (3.125)	6 for 25c (4.17)
Weekly Pass	$1.75	$2.00
Zone No. 2	Present	Proposed
Adult cash fare	10c	13c
Adult tickets	None	4 for 50c (12.5)
Children's cash fare	5c	6c
Children's ticket fare	10 for 40c (4.0)	5 for 25c (5.00)
Zone No. 3	Present	Proposed
Adult cash fare	15c	15c
Children's cash fare	8c	8c
Children's tickets	10 for 65c (6.5)	10 for 70c (7.0)

The company's application covering transit on the mainland also was approved with the exception of the effective date—the company requested March 17—and children's fares in New Westminster and North Vancouver.

Percy E. George, chairman of the P.U.C., handed down the decision. An accompanying release stated:

"The commission has very carefully reviewed the whole matter in all its aspects and the following facts are evident:

"First, in 1951, the transit services on the mainland and in Greater Victoria took in less than their operating costs.

"Further considering the transit, electric and gas services as a whole, the 1951 operations on the mainland and on Vancouver Island both showed earnings substantially less than the figure which the commission fixed in 1943 as a fair return, and which the company in 1951 applied to have increased—a matter which is still under consideration by the commission."

"The P.U.C. stated the proposed increases will result in the operation of all B.C.E. services still yielding in 1952 substantially less than the fair return fixed by the P.U.C. in 1943.

"It is a prime requisite that the company's earnings be such as to encourage new financing on reasonable terms, referring to financing necessary for a proposed expansion program.

"For these reasons the commission is of the unanimous opinion that it is in the public interest to consent to the filing by the company of tariffs that will put the new fares into force substantially as proposed. They will become effective on Sunday, April 6."

Only change in the tariffs proposed by the company relates to children's fares.

North Vancouver and New Westminster, where the present children's fares are 10 for 25 cents will have new fare of eight for 25 cents instead of six for 25 as first proposed by the company.

The P.U.C. in its statement referred to public hearings held in Vancouver and Victoria. It said both before and after hearings, the commission's engineering and accounting staff carried out checking of figures which accompanied the applications and the evidence given at the hearings.

Reasons given by the company for revision as summarized in the P.U.C. statement were:

Increased operating costs since last increases in transit fares—mainland, July, 1949, and Vancouver Island, Oct., 1949; further increases in wages.

The company contended its earning position, especially in transit services, was an impossible one in view of new financing it plans for a necessary expansion program, according to the P.U.C. statement.

Truce in Korea Will Be Sign for Communists to Strike Anywhere—Chiang

(Editor's note: Bill Boss, Canadian Press staff writer with the Canadian forces in Korea, has obtained an exclusive interview with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, head of the Chinese Nationalist government. Boss is the first Canadian to visit Chiang since the Nationalists withdrew from the mainland to Formosa. The interview drew from the generalissimo striking comment on probable effects of any Korean truce.)

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer
TAIPEI, Formosa, March 28 (CP).—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek said today he believes United Nations acceptance of a truce in Korea would be interpreted by the Communists as an invitation to strike elsewhere.

In an exclusive interview at his Nationalist Chinese headquarters, he said that "if an armistice should be reached in Korea I would look immediately for intensification of the struggle in southeast Asia."

During the 35-minute interview, Chiang outlined his current thinking on Asia's problems, ranging over Korea, Nationalist Chinese aspirations, world policy along the anti-Communist front and probable future Red strategy.

"If the U.N. accepts peace in Korea, in the Communist meaning of the word, it will represent a defeat for the U.N.," he said.

An armistice was possible "but from long experience with them I believe it would be interpreted by them as a U.N. invitation to them to strike elsewhere."

form of weapons and munitions. We can do as much spare troops to help you elsewhere."

Chiang has 12 armies here, 360,000 men.

Predicting the Communist moves in southeast Asia, notably Indo-China and Burma, he said "they can be prevented."

"Let us launch what you call a limited offensive assault against the mainland. It would involve only Chinese armies, not United Nations troops."

"It would not be aimed at regaining the mainland—which would come later as part of the common policy—but would draw in large Communist armies and keep them too much occupied either to resume hostilities in Korea or to increase activities in southeast Asia."

"We could undertake such operations any time. Otherwise the only way to handle the situation will be to meet increased force with increased force."

The Generalissimo said his Chinese Nationalist government feels it has lost Canada's friendship since it was ousted from the Chinese mainland by the Communists.

He told this reporter: "You are the first Canadian to visit me since my government withdrew to Formosa. I want to ask you a question:

"When we were on the mainland we had the closest relations with Canada. We considered Canada our best friend among Commonwealth nations."

"Since then we have come to feel we have lost the friendship of Canada. Some of the unfriendliest motions introduced against us in the United Nations were proposed by Canada. Why is this?"

This reporter and Chiang then engaged in an amiable discussion of the pros and cons of the question of recognition of Communist China, the reporter maintaining that being realistic about a given situation need not be construed as a wavering of friendship.

Chiang, however, wasn't ready to agree that it was realistic.

"You say realistic. If you are realistic you will realize your business, diplomatic and missionary interests are all harmed by Communist usurpation and that your missionaries—Roman Catholic ones especially—are being maltreated."

"I do not complain. But we did have such friendly relations with your country once that it feels now like having one's friends abandon one in difficult days."

Thet new Labor Party proposal for th' other parties not t' oppose it in six ridin's in th' provincial election is th' best I've heard yet. But ballots with only one name on 'em ain't th' democratic way.

Hackin' at th' other feller's expenses is "economy." But hackin' at th' Mayor's expenses is "spite."

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

Some people have the ability to make you feel important. The crew at the Red Cross Lodge, by the Vets' Hospital, is like that. Some pretty outstanding personages have been there. The Queen and Philip passed by a few months ago. Just the same, when you walk in, somebody in a light blue uniform—it might be Jean Straith—gives you the impression that she's been waiting for you to visit.

Stott

If you sit down and think about it, that feeling of importance is also as satisfying a reaction as you can experience. And if you happen to drop into one of the comfortable chesterfields at the lodge, and look around, you'll be impressed by the appearance of other people who have been made to feel just as important as you.

That's part of the atmosphere of the place. It's one of the things that makes it such a grand centre in which to visit returned men under hospital treatment. It's one of the reasons so many of those men sing the praises of the lodge and the women who run it.

And you notice, too, that Jean Straith isn't alone in building up your confidence in yourself. With the women at the lodge, that's standard practice. It explains why patients who have been in other centres tell you, "I like it here. It's friendly and homey."

Madge Molson, the architect and Mrs. Miriam Coultas, who did the interior decorating and designed the landscaping, meant it to be that way. The main lounge is bright and cheery, with a big stone fireplace and attractive easy chairs and chesterfields arranged in it. Off to the side you can see vets playing bridge or canasta, with a woman in the blue Red Cross uniform holding the fourth hand.

The players crab, kid and kibitz as they do anywhere else—and enjoy it. There aren't any poker games. Gambling is out. So is liquor.

Serving and Saving

But anyone who's thirsty can slip into the canteen for tea or coffee and light snacks. Coffee's still a nickel a cup. Food sells at cost, and Supervisor Helen Gowen makes the cookies. The men like them better than bought confectionery and the home-made items save the canteen money.

That's important. Some of the "boys"—anyone who's male and able to get in is a "boy"—have pretty slim allowances. Prices are held down to accommodate them—and since the lodge operates on a budget, a nickel saved isn't to be sneezed at.

You don't notice any penny-pinching in the premises. Everything's like a smart club, bright with flowers Mrs. James Barr provides and arranges. It can operate that way because the Red Cross has a lot of friends. Among the 100 odd women who serve there in shifts several have formed crews since the lodge opened four years ago.

Clubs and sororities delegate certain of their members who want to serve on special days or evenings. A volunteer librarian looks after the book shelves filled with volumes given by friends.

Recent magazines in good shape are contributed and there is a constant demand for playing cards and records for the combination phonograph and radio.

"We could use more records," says Mrs. C. J. Harrington. "We never seem to have too many. They're not like Christmas cards. Once we made an appeal for old cards that are used by the vets in some of their recreational hobbies at D.V.A. What a response! We almost had to move out of our little office, so many came in."

Forget the Bill

Mrs. Harrington gives you an idea of the reaction to the lodge. Tradesmen and friends keep making donations to it. One supplies a couple of turkeys each year. The chimney sweep forgot to send in his bill when he'd cleaned out the flues. When he was reminded, he asked only for a receipt to put on his income tax returns.

The painter who was decorating the lounge thought so much of the work that's done there he painted the "Quiet Room" and neglected to charge for it.

An old lady—the lodge officials don't know who she is—sends in an occasional two dollars for smokes for the "boys." And musicians and dramatic groups go out to provide entertainment for free.

You can understand all that after a visit to the lodge. They probably feel the way you do—important. It's worth a little effort to achieve that feeling. It's a satisfaction a little more personal even than making a donation to the Red Cross fund drive now in progress.

Selkirk Waters Approved As Logging Booming Area

Log storage in Selkirk Waters by B.C. Forest Products Ltd. was approved by city council Thursday night in a vote of 8 to 1.

Ald. Robert Macmillan fought the move. Town Planning Commission had already recommended approval be given.

Macmillan contended the city was "treading on dangerous ground." He said the company had stored logs in the area for 30 years and were just now taking steps to make it legal.

He said it was possible the company would be sued with an injunction sought on "nuisance" grounds. If the city approved the log storage he felt it would be in a position of "condoning" the company's action.

City Solicitor Arthur Patton said a 1925 city by-law set aside all forest land in Selkirk waters for industrial purposes. If the company were sued, he said, there would be no liability to the city.

He said that although the city is asked by the provincial government if it approves, the final approval is given by the government.

"The trouble, as in the past, is that we look no further than our noses," argued Macmillan. "I am not trying to strangle the logging industry. We are strangling our major industry."

He referred to the tourist industry, which he felt gave the city almost all of its industrial payroll.

"We are not going to lose one iota of the tourist industry because of log storage," said Ald. Frank Mulliner. "We allowed B.C. Forest Products to build there."

He felt the city could not now deny them log storage.

Quick Action by Council in Disposal Of City-Owned Lands Asked by Dowell

Ald. Arthur Dowell wants the city to move in high gear when it comes to disposal of city-owned properties.

As chairman of the city lands committee he urged council at its meeting Thursday night to take determined action in disposing of eight houses.

He asked council not to content itself with "putting little ads" in the paper and advocated co-operation with the real estate board. He felt the city could realize several thousands of dollars.

Council approved a lands committee report that tenants of nine city-owned buildings be given 90-day notice to vacate so that tenders for demolition can be called.

It approved also 90-day notices to tenants of eight other buildings which will be sold.

This was agreed on Thursday at a police commission meeting following the recent resignation of James J. Proydfoot as prosecutor.

City Prosecutor's Post Under Study

A special committee of city council and police commissioners headed by Mayor Claude Harrison will sit soon to consider the appointment of a new city prosecutor.

This was agreed on Thursday at a police commission meeting following the recent resignation of James J. Proydfoot as prosecutor.

Growth of Playground Program Outlined to Optimist Club

Growth of Victoria's playground program from two supervised centres 12 years ago to a dozen today was outlined by William J. Pynn, director, Thursday.

In a talk to the Optimist Club he said that last year's 10 playgrounds would be increased to 12 this year with completion of Redfern Street and Quadra Heights areas.

Pynn, who is also repair foreman for city parks, said attendance last year totalled between 60,000 and 70,000. He said fully-trained and qualified instructors are employed at the playgrounds.

HERE, THERE AND EVERYWHERE

Condensed from CP, AP, and UP Dispatches

DOUBTFUL—In Ottawa Trade Minister C. D. Howe has vetoed a suggested $2.85 fixed domestic price for No. 1 northern wheat, but agreed to further discussion, Chairman Joseph L. Phelps of the Inter-Provincial Farmers Union Council said today.

"The Trade Minister did not like our proposal," Phelps said. "He said, however, that perhaps he could be convinced of such a fixed price."

The council told Howe that the domestic price of wheat should be "completely separated from the International Wheat Agreement price." The government was asked to announce before July 31 that domestic prices would be related to costs of goods and services purchased by Canadian farmers.

DIED—Norman McNeill, West Vancouver, whose home was pictured on the 1935, 50-cent stamp, died Thursday night at his home.

The stamp showed the entrance to Vancouver harbor. McNeill's home was visible in the background.

ARRESTED—In Cairo, police Thursday night arrested 300 suspects in connection with the "Black Saturday" riots Jan. 26. Most of them belong to the Socialist Party, while the rest are members of the Moslem Brotherhood.

More than 100 Egyptians have already been sent to jail because of the riots in which about 30 people were killed and hundreds of buildings damaged or looted. About 300 more persons are awaiting trial.

Ahmed Hussein, Socialist Party leader, is serving 18 months on a charge arising from the riots. Ibrahim Shukry, deputy leader of the party, has also been arrested. Socialist Party officials have decided the organization will not take part in general elections May 18, unless the leaders are released.

SUPERIOR—In Washington the navy plans to produce 300 planes monthly by the end of fiscal 1953, including seven models superior to Russia's Mig-15 jet fighter, it was revealed today.

Navy Secretary Dan A. Kimball and Adm. William M. Fechteler, chief of naval operations, reported these goals in recent testimony on the record-breaking $32,100,000,000 defense budget released by the House appropriations committee.

INEVITABLE—In Washington, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's early departure from Europe is regarded as inevitable by the 14 North Atlantic Treaty nations, informed sources reported today.

"It now appears to everyone that the general's resignation as supreme commander is only a question of when—and it probably won't be long," one informant said.

In Paris, the semi-official French news agency, Agence France Presse, reported that Eisenhower would ask release from his European command "on or a little after April 2," and would return home about May 15. Sources close to the general agreed.

WAR—Marine-flown carrier planes attacked Communist supply lines, gun positions, bridges and buildings in North Korea today, and navy ships bombarded Red positions on both coasts of the war-torn country.

Fliers from the carrier Philippine Sea hit the Hungnam and Sampo areas, while the carrier Bairoko's planes attacked Communist targets west of Chinnampo harbor for the North Korean capital of Pyongyang.

The cruiser Manchester and destroyer Hanson braved Communist shore batteries at Wonsan to silence the defending guns and again bombard the crippled city.

The heavy cruiser Rochester and destroyer Moore attacked Communist fortifications near Kosong on the east coast. The British destroyer Cossack and the American destroyer Chandler bombarded Red emplacements near Songjin on the west.

CHANGED—In Montreal the Roman Catholic hierarchy in Canada, which once sought appointment of a Canadian ambassador to the Vatican, has changed its stand and does not now encourage such a move.

Informed church sources said the bishops who once vigorously backed a strong demand for a diplomatic representative to the Holy See had decided to prevent Catholic lay organizations from promoting it in public.

The informants said the bishops feel that such an appointment would be embarrassing and would veto their already partly-successful campaign for federal grants to Catholic schools.

SENTENCED—Former Burnaby B.C. provincial police Constable Malcolm Peacock has been sentenced to two-and-a-half years in prison on a charge of breaking and entering.

Council 'Spite' Held Disgrace

Fight Over Mayor's Bills Breeds Rancor; Some Aldermen Protest Petty Squabbling

Mayor Claude Harrison emerged victor after a 50-minute brannigan at City Council meeting Thursday night over $130 in stenographic bills.

By a 5-4 vote council approved payment of the bills incurred by the mayor in connection with his inaugural address.

During the ensuing verbal melee the 19 citizens seated in the public gallery heard the mayor refer to "personal spite going on here." He labeled it a disgrace.

The gallery heard Ald. Robert Macmillan say the discussion was "ridiculous" and he could not "stomach it."

Finance committee recommendation that the bills be not authorized was defeated.

Council, however, by a vote of 5-1 sustained the committee's recommendation to refuse payment for a telephone in an office which the mayor set up for aldermen in the Kresge building.

Another committee recommendation that payment of all home telephones of mayor and aldermen and the private line in the mayor's office at city hall be paid, was approved unanimously.

MURDOCH OPPOSED

Ald. Brent Murdoch, member of finance committee, who opposed his committee's recommendation for non-payment of the mayor's stenographic bills, started the debate.

He said he wrote the mayor asking his reasons in obtaining two court stenographers for dictation and transcription of his inaugural address. The mayor stated he was ill in bed at his home on both occasions.

The first instance, he said, was over a Saturday and Sunday when he could get no one else. In the second, he said he could not speak above a whisper and required a court stenographer capable under difficulties.

SOLICITOR'S OPINION

The city solicitor in a letter to the mayor dated March 26 said owing to the confidential nature of the documents he was justified in having the matter handled as he did.

When question of the telephone in the Kresge Building came up, Ald. Macmillan said it was "extremely petty and shouldn't even be on the agenda."

"It's on the agenda because of a letter from the mayor to the comptroller stating that no account is to be paid unless authorized by council or a committee," replied Skillings.

The mayor said he set the office up at his own expense for the aldermen. Having the phone paid for by the city, he felt, would save them any feeling of embarrassment about using the room.

STUDY TO CUT CITY STAFF

Team to 'Go Over Heads' of Officials

A personnel study with a view to staff reduction where possible will be underway at City Hall. Ald. Robert Macmillan introduced the motion at council meeting Thursday night. It calls for the city manager and department heads to evaluate and report on employees in order that staff reductions may be considered and effected where possible.

The report is to be filed with council in three months. Ald. Frank Mulliner registered the sole negative vote. He contended the city manager was already evaluating jobs. "It is criticism of him or something new?" asked Mulliner.

Macmillan replied there was no criticism. Ald. Waldo Skillings suggested the manager and personnel chief undertake the study. He said it was "common knowledge that department heads are loath to lose any man." He felt the study should go "over the heads" of the department officials where necessary.

The Snap Vote on Buttle

BEFORE THE LEGISLATURE MET Premier Johnson promised that it would be given the chance fully to debate and decide at leisure the future of Strathcona Park.

The question was brought into the House at 1 a.m. last Wednesday when the exhausted members had neither time, energy, nor inclination to consider it properly. Mr. Johnson's pledge thus was redeemed in a fashion which cannot satisfy anybody. Mr. Winch was quite right in saying that no intelligent vote was possible since the members lacked all the information essential for their guidance. This was not a debate. It was a snap vote. It was not a vote. It was a farce.

Nevertheless, however, it was made the decision of the legislature stands. It has given the government full authority to dam Buttle Lake and it has the right to make that decision since the park is its own creation.

But the legislature, it should be noted, has not ordered the damming of Buttle Lake. It has only given permission for the dam. It is for the government to decide whether the dam should be built.

The water controller has authorized the power commission to raise the lake level and generate electricity thereby. The appeal against his jurisdiction to issue this authorization has been rejected by the minister of lands. But another appeal against the actual finding of the water controller has still to be decided by Mr. Kenney. If and when he rejects this appeal the matter will go before the cabinet for final settlement.

The present cabinet, says Premier Johnson, has no mandate to settle any controversial issue. On the premier's own statement it has no mandate to settle the future of Strathcona Park. That assuredly is a controversial issue and, moreover, an issue on which neither the public nor the legislature has the full facts. We agree with Mr. Anscomb that the final decision should be postponed until after an election has given some government a clear mandate and a working majority. This government, as so painfully proved during recent weeks, lacks both.

School Trustees and Councils

LECTURES ON CIVIC AFFAIRS TO the Junior Chamber of Commerce should be of particular value to the members and of indirect value to the community as a whole. For that reason the series recently conducted deserves commendation.

It must strike some citizens as unusual, however, to read the report of City Solicitor Arthur J. Patton's explanation of relationships between the council and the school board.

Mr. Patton is reported to have declared one aspect of those relationships "is not democratic." He referred specifically to the system under which school boards present estimates to municipal councils, explaining:

"The school board can come along and ask us for a million dollars, and we haven't a word to say about it. The trustees just sit back and say 'Go ahead, boys, and when you get the money, hand it over.'"

For purposes of convenience and economy, the school board and the city council use the same machinery for municipal tax collection. Duplication of services would be foolish and costly.

But the school board is not the creature of the city council. It is not taking council money. It is raising funds, by taxation, from the citizens.

Those taxes are for school purposes purely and simply.

The amounts required are fixed by the school board after proper study of requirements. The detail of that study is something councils as a whole never master.

Conceivably the board may make mistakes in its estimates. The board may, moreover, exercise judgment with which the council members disagree. When disagreements arise, the council has authority to question expenditure, and if it considers such action desirable, may go to arbitration on matters in dispute.

But it is not the council's money, and the school board operates in its own jurisdiction. Trustees are elected by the same people who elect council members and are responsible to those electors, not to the mayors, reeves, aldermen or councillors.

The sooner that point is understood by councils the sooner will a cause of friction between the two independent bodies be removed.

At the same time, electors who choose school trustees should realize that they are electing members to a tax raising body and should take a long and careful look at the candidates before marking ballots.

The Structure Can Be Overloaded

DRASTIC EFFECTS may shortly be felt in the Canadian building industry, which now is opening country-wide wage negotiations with labor.

A survey by the Financial Post indicates that labor's demands in many localities from coast to coast may be so large that they would, if met, wreck any prospect of full employment. Employers, recognizing the curbing effect of ever-rising costs, are reported preparing to resist the heavier demands even to the point of strike.

The highest wage demand on record so far is that of Halifax electricians, who call for a raise of $1.07 an hour. Vancouver carpenters now receiving $2 an hour, seek at least 50 cents more. Calgary carpenters want a 70-cent raise, while in Windsor they are asking for 35 cents. Halifax bricklayers, now paid $1.54, want a basic wage of $2.07.

In Victoria, the pattern is much the same. Carpenters, now receiving $1.75 an hour, are asking for a 75-cent raise. Laborers have called for a similar boost, to give them $2.05.

These are some of the demands as the questions come before joint employer-employee meetings. It is doubtful, however, if the industry could stand the full impact of such costs. Home building, already greatly slackened due to rising prices, would be still further reduced. Promoters of industrial and commercial projects would be encouraged to postpone their work in hopes of a break in the market. Buyer resistance, whether in groceries or buildings, must eventually assert itself in the face of continually rising costs, and 90 per cent of building costs are attributable to labor.

The consensus of employers is that while raises should be granted, they should be in the neighborhood of 15 or 20 cents, in conformity with the rise in the cost of living.

Montreal bricklayers settled for 15 cents after asking 25 cents, giving them a basic $1.90 an hour. Carpenters in that city agreed on $1.70. In the Lakehead area, plasterers obtained a 15-cent raise, bricklayers and carpenters, 20 cents. On that basis business may be done elsewhere. But higher demands will meet with resistance.

A recent survey shows that construction wages in Canada went up approximately 15 cents an hour during 1951, compared with a national average in all industries of 14 cents. This represented a 12 per cent advance for the building workers, compared with a cost-of-living increase of only 11 per cent. These are statistics which no doubt will be quoted across many a negotiation table within the next few weeks.

Fatalism Out Of Horror Warfare

THE MANCHESTER GUARDIAN, which recently described the grim results of napalm bombing, has received protesting letters from a number of its readers expressing horror at the use of that weapon in Korea.

The letters have questioned the justification for resort to it under any circumstances. Some correspondents have even reproached the distinguished newspaper for publishing an account of the weapon's results.

The Guardian has considered this reaction soberly. It notes the difficulty faced by soldiers in determining whether to employ napalm bombs at all and it suggests that those difficulties make it all the more necessary to think out the question coolly in an atmosphere removed from the heat of actual hostilities.

This horror weapon is another of the terrors which modern war can visit on troops or civilians. In that respect it may be compared to the atom bomb or the hydrogen bomb. And since the United Nations have used it, there is little reason to expect an enemy not to use it or the big bombs, if the enemy has a supply.

Recognition of that fact creates unavoidable reactions among the peoples of western democracies. Some are now busy trying to protect themselves against such weapons in the event of attack. Hence the interest in civilian defense.

Others accept a fatalistic outlook. They question the value of protective preparations. They are deciding, if they have not already decided, to live as normal lives as possible, without protection, in order to gain from existence as much enjoyment and satisfaction as they can.

They refuse to wear a bullet-proof vest and risk the chance of meeting a gunman, rather than submit to the discomfort of the bullet-proof vest which may not be needed.

Perhaps such people are, too apathetic to bother taking precautions. On the other hand, they may be expressing a thoroughly honest outlook toward life. At all events, that attitude is becoming more popular as the discomforts of preparedness grow. Victorians frequently express the sentiment in such words as: "If the bomb falls on this city, I hope it hits me first and that I don't linger."

Whether that point of view is justified is not argued here. The fact remains that it exists and appears to be gaining adherents. The description of horror warfare tends to encourage it.

Such an outlook may represent the philosophy of defeat. It can be countered in part at least by strengthening national and international defenses to a point where they discourage aggression.

And in that task, it is imperative to see that wavering nations are brought to our side. One means of encouraging their friendliness may be found in such measures as the Colombo Plan and the Point Four program. Through assistance such as these schemes offer, the strength of the west is increased and the ranks of hostile and potentially hostile countries are reduced.

Chips Off The Old Brock

By DAVID BROCK

THE POWER failed along our street the other evening. We lit candles, as usual, and just as we were enjoying them heartily as usual, the power came on again. It wasn't only the children who groaned at the being broken.

And it wasn't that the children don't see candles very often. . . we buy them in boxes of 120, as one of the cheapies aids to beauty, comfort, and that apparently paradoxical combination of luxury and homeliness so rare today. Why couldn't we have just switched off the electric lights, when they came on, and kept the candles going? I don't know. All I know is that it wouldn't have been quite the same thing. It never is. Candles for pleasure are a friendly comfort, but enforced candles are an adventure.

THIS is the dead opposite of the usual theory. Countrymen will tell you "Oh, you may like candles as a treat, when you have electric power laid on. You may like chopping your own wood for a joke, when you can buy all you want. And the same with carrying water, and tending the stove, and all that. But if you were out in the bush and these things were forced on you, you'd hate them for the horrible drudgery they are." I am not so sure. With water piped into my house, I'd hate carrying water in buckets. But I've enjoyed it when there was no other way of getting the stuff.

ONE CHRISTMAS we went into the mountains to what was really our summer cottage. My best memories are not of the snow and the hills and the this cold air, or even of the nineteen trumpeter swans that were foolishly wintering there among lakes nearly all frozen. What I recall most vividly, and with never a trace of boredom, is chopping a hole in the ice for snow; finding wood in the deep snow; tending and cooking on a stove that needed skill (and rewarded it, maybe); falling with water bucket on the steep path, so that the frozen water made the path more death for the rest of our holiday; the cheery breakfasts (imagine a cheery breakfast!) with all of us half frozen; the cheery evenings, with six readers trying to share the one lamp; reading in bed by candlelight in the unheated attic; and so on. No mail, no phone, no callers, no movies, no shops. No radio, hooray.

AH, BUT that was only a holiday? I don't know. . . It seemed quite as much a normal pleasure as it did an adventure, in some ways. Mind you, I'm not a simple-lifer. I adore such things as yachts and wine and cigars and civilized parties (not to mention wild parties, though these flourish quite nicely in the sticks), and I only wish I had the income for them. I wish I could buy books and pictures and horses and parklike gardens. I wish I could live in the greatest luxury. But that doesn't keep me from preferring one sort of daily grind to another, and one simplicity to another. Let us not argue or theorize too much. All I know is that I don't bless Mr. Edison any more than I bless Mr. Alexander Graham Bell or the Wright Brothers. On the contrary.

WELL, why haven't I the guts to live like a hermit, then, or at least rip the wiring off my house? I'll tell you why: your modern living and Mr. Edison and the boys must have bred the guts out of me, that's what. The next thing you know, my grandchildren will be sorry when the power goes off. And having no sense, those kids (whom I dislike in advance) will be downright bored when I tell them about the rough old days when the power went off several times a year.

ANXIOUS TO PLEASE NOW getting on for eleven, the father of one of my future grandchildren was getting a lecture from his old pappy. I didn't like to see him picking so many fights. He said maybe so, but God liked it. I was a little baffled by this, and asked how he knew. He said God liked him to do unto others as he'd have them do unto him. And as he was always glad when it was the other kids' fault for starting the fight, Heaven must be glad when he obliged Heaven and the boy by starting the fight himself.

I don't know how he stands theologically. But this is good enough talk for an average hair-splitter and sophist. He had better look out, though. It was for exactly this smart alecky logic in my youth that my own parents bound me over to study law for three horrible years, and it more than served me right. It wasn't only my parents who, quite wrongly, got the impression I was hankering for court work.

Canada Too?

Financial Post

IT IS entirely possible for a man to graduate from university in the United States at the age of 22 without being able to read or write.

The interesting admission comes not from any irresponsible novice. It was deliberately stated by Robert M. Hutchins, former chancellor of the University of Chicago and now director of the Ford Foundation, in a special lecture in the University of Toronto's Convocation Hall. Here are some other points as made by Dr. Hutchins:

Liberal education was not murdered. It committed suicide. It has only itself to blame for its complete preoccupation with vocational training, which most industries could do better, and in shorter time.

The attitude in the U.S. is that schooling is important, but education is not. Possession of a degree is important, because only with it can one beat the various combinations in restraint of trade that use the education system for their own ends.

Occupational groups, from doctors to embalmers, who, by limiting access to their group to people who have passed through accredited schools, have attained the double purpose of making the occupation look dignified and of restricting competition.

Dr. Hutchins, of course, was speaking of the United States. Being a guest and a gentleman he refrained, naturally, from any criticism of education in Canada. But in his charges there are sharp lessons for Canadians, too. If only in warning us of some practices and tendencies we should certainly avoid.

Making a Soap Box Out of It

Under Our Roof

By JOHN RHODES STURDY

THE usual methods of leaving our island are by aircraft or the steamship that calls here three-weekly, and both are pleasant ways of traveling. On this occasion, when Hamish and Little Augie and I were preparing to depart for Montreal, I thought the ship would be best, inasmuch as I could lock my two companions in a stateroom, pleased with the captain to steam under forced draught for his own safety and that of his ship, and thereby have a fair chance of reaching the mainland without disaster overtaking us.

The odds are much less in an aircraft. Flying time from the island is only 15 minutes, but that is much too long for any pilot when he has Hamish and Little Augie as passengers. He would probably be out of his mind before he was even airborne.

So I made arrangements to travel by ship, and even bought the tickets. I did this in a rash burst of over-confidence, but I suppose the company will refund my money. That is, if I survive.

Up to a point things looked fairly promising. My wife had done my packing for me, and after a great deal of searching in bottom drawers (while she was around) I eventually uncovered my little address book with all the old Montreal telephone numbers. Of course, I'll admit that some of them may be out-of-date (I know "Susie, EL 0011" is no longer in circulation, for instance. She was Miss Bonsecours Market of 1929, but took up art in her later years and is now known as the Grandma Mosek of Montreal East—but still the address book might be handy to have).

And then, of course, when we were practically ready to leave and the ship was sailing the next day, Little Augie had to complicate matters.

"What am I going to do with my stock?" he wanted to know.

"Keep it locked up until we get back," I said.

"Or let me look after it," suggested Col. S. Skeffington-Smiths (Ret.) with a gleam in his eye.

"No," said Little Augie. "I always clear out my stock when I leave a place, even for a short time. I could post a notice in the village general store and have an auction sale. You know, like "Priceless Potatoes Going for a Song. Entire clearance of Little Augie's famous extra-special home brew."

I gave the former blind-pig king a dark look. "Do you want us to go to jail?" I asked sarcastically. "If I were you, I'd dump the whole shebang over the cliff."

"And lose all my profits?" he demanded. "Don't be a dope, dope. If only I could find some honest person to take over the business while I'm away, that would be the solution."

Well, that was his worry and I let him have it. I have never been comfortable since Little Augie started up a small business on the island, and that was one of the reasons why I was glad to be leaving for Montreal and taking him with me. In Montreal a man in his particular line of business can do no wrong.

Hamish had been listening thoughtfully to this conversation, and after a time we missed him. But he came back just before suppertime and he looked jubilant.

"Little Augie," he said, "you have no more worries. I have found the right person to take over your business."

Little Augie looked doubtful. "How did this happen?" he asked.

"Well," said Hamish, "I was in the village and I happened to see the hands of some young man standing in front of the post office, looking rather desolate, and I asked him if he would be interested in taking over a stock of potatoes, and he said yes. So I described to him the wonderful things you had in the cellar and how you sold either by the bottle or the glass, and he said it was just the kind of business he was looking for."

"So?" I said.

"So," said Hamish, "he will be here in a half an hour or so, to look at the stock, and he is bringing a friend."

Then Hamish added: "I think you will like him. He looks honest. And I think he has just been discharged from the army, because he is still wearing his uniform."

"What kind of a uniform?"

"Why," said Hamish, "the usual uniform. Sort of khaki. His army cap has a yellow band around it. I don't know his unit, but he had the letters on his shoulders."

"What letters?"

"R.C.M.P." It was then that I screamed, "Get out the rowboat!" and that's how we departed from the island.

Evolution

A rose today. But you will ask in vain Tomorrow what it is, and Yesterday It was the Dust, the Sunshine and the Rain."

Again: "This is a snowflake which was once a flame. The flame was once the fragment of a star."

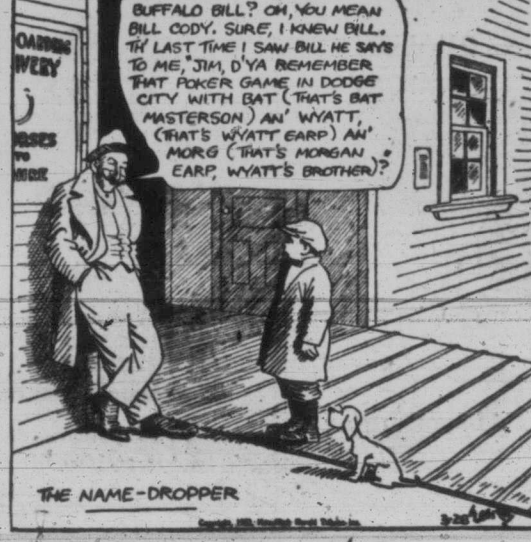

These evolutionary thoughts may sound like fairy tales to Mr. Whitfield but they are just as true as "all flesh is grass."

He should read up on evolution. The assistants in the Public Library would give him every help.

The Thrill That Comes Once in a Lifetime

By H. T. WEBSTER

The Shepherd

THE PRODIGAL SON

"My son was dead and is alive again." Luke 15:24

The Master said a prodigal son. . . Once squandered wealth. When it was done. . . A famine came. He tended swine. . . And fain upon the hucks would dine. . . Came to himself and went back to. . . His home. His father did bestow. . . A robe and ring, in his behalf. . . Forgave and killed the fattest calf. . . This story shows Christ's attitude. . . On father-love and gratitude.

As Our Readers See It

ANOTHER STANZA

Without wishing to enter in any way, a controversy on the subject of our national anthem, "God save the Queen," (or King, as case may be) is still good enough for an "early Victorian." I would like to strongly advocate the inclusion—at least now and here—of the verse:

Confound their politics. Frustrate their knavish tricks. On Thee, our hopes we fix, God save us all!

The sentiments so expressed seem so exactly appropriate to our present times in Canada, more specially British Columbia!

MRS. S. C. BEESON. Duncan, B.C.

WELFARE COSTS

When it is the money in our own pockets that is involved we Canadians are still careful of our dollars. Wage earners are concerned, and rightly so, over a dollar more or a dollar less in their pay envelopes; housewives know where and what for they spend every penny. But our attitude towards big government spending is different. When Ottawa spends a billion it gets hardly more attention than when the amount is a million, though of course Ottawa can spend only what is first or last taken from us in taxes.

The above observation is prompted by the speech of Paul Martin to an audience in Rochester, N.Y., when the Health Minister stated that Canadian governments and voluntary agencies will spend $1,330,000,000 on social security in 1952. This amounts to $95 per head of population. That figure has little meaning until we realize that the United Kingdom, where Canadians believe the welfare state is in full swing, is spending on social security only $794,000,000, or about $44 per head of population.

Some Canadians argue that this country is far behind in matters of social security, that more tax money must be spent. Yet our per capita spending on these services is twice that of a country we regard as a true welfare state.

In his speech Mr. Martin sounded wise words of warning when he said that there is no secret formula for paying social security, that it must be paid out of production, and that over-emphasis on social security could cripple any country's economy.

C. J. HARRIS, Secretary, The Canadian Unity Council, Toronto.

S.P.C.A.

A great deal has appeared in the press lately about certain difficulties that have cropped up in the local branch of the S.P.C.A. and I think the public is utterly confused so I will endeavor to clarify the situation.

At the annual meeting held on Feb. 6 Mr. Evans consented to run as president on condition that certain stipulations were put into force. These conditions hinged on the inspector and his wife being put in almost complete control of the shelter and most of the operations of the society with little supervision.

At the annual meeting these stipulations were read out but were not discussed and I don't think the members present had any but the haziest idea of what they meant.

Many of us on the executive who have had a good many years' experience in this work considered that these conditions stood a very slight chance of working satisfactorily either from the society's or the inspector's point of view and when we so expressed ourselves Mr. Evans resigned and another general meeting was called at which no clarifying discussion took place and which in fact ended with the public being more confused than ever.

I most earnestly hope that the members of the branch will make every effort to familiarize themselves with the true facts and that this is not just a cheap squabble, but an earnest endeavor to have the branch function for the purpose for which it is intended.

E. P. HEYWOOD, Past President, 2938 Tudor Road.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"THE big idea," said the Elevator Man, "with most acts is to make it look easy. Some fella will spend 20 minutes practising juggling a dozen dinner plates while sitting on a bicycle on a tightrope. Naturally, while he's doing the act he's under a tremendous strain. He probably would like to screw his face into a mask, grit his teeth and likely grunt throughout the whole thing. But instead he has to relax and smile. Half the effect is in making it seem effortless. It proves he's good and not just on the way up. But you can overdo it, too. You can make the act seem so easy, by reason of your ability, that the crowd begins to think anybody could handle it. That's the danger point. It's then that the smart performer begins deliberately to put a few slips into the show. The girl who flies through the air gets dropped now and then. A dinner plate gets away occasionally to splinter on the floor. The crowd is satisfied with these carefully engineered mistakes. That must be hard," they figure. "Even after 20 years' practise he still isn't perfect." Going down!

"You get the idea," said the Elevator Man, "that humans can't stand perfection. Once a thing becomes perfect it seems to lose its attraction. It can't be because we have so much perfection we get bored with it. The ones are rare enough. But we're lost without a standard of comparison. The duffer reverences a hole-in-one because he knows it's a hole-in-one for him. And a man who could make a hole-in-one every shot would have to miss now and then if he wanted to get full admiration. Once they figure you can't miss, there isn't much virtue in not missing. Lower main!"

"The great violinist," said the Elevator Man, "had the right idea. He was disgusted with his notice in the paper. 'What's the trouble?' he was asked. 'It praises you.' So?" said the old maestro. "For 37 years I have practised 14 hours a day, and now they say my playing is wonderful. But to what do they attribute my skill? They say I'm a genius. Bah!"

Canada's Exports Jump $77,000,000 in Feb.

OTTAWA, March 28 (CP)—Sparked by a big revival in automobile sales, Canada's exports jumped $77,000,000 during February to $313,400,000—the 10th successive month in which values exceeded the $300,000,000 mark.

Automobile sales soared to $16,651,000, up $15,800,000 from $863,000 in February last year, to help boost total exports by more than 30 per cent from $235,800,000 year ago, the Bureau of Statistics reported today.

U.S. Recognizes Cuban Insurgents

HAVANA, Cuba, March 28 (AP)—The United States Thursday became the 18th country to recognize the revolutionary government of Fulgencio Batista. The announcement came as ousted President Charles Prio Socarras appealed from exile in Miami, Fla., to the Cuban senate not to recognize the Batista regime, which seized power March 10.

Hospital Employees Elect New Officers

The Orderlies and Cleaners' Club of the Victoria Veterans' Hospital re-elected Ray Hayes as their president at their annual meeting recently.

The big boost in vehicle sales pushed total automobile exports for the January-February period to $31,658,000—a tremendous advance from $1,612,000 in the same period last year.

In a previous preliminary statement, the bureau reported that the climb of exports, outpacing imports of $282,100,000, gave Canada a foreign-trade surplus of $31,300,000 for the month.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

VICTORIA'S SUNSHINE RECORD TO DATE, 1932—268.0 HOURS

SYNOPSIS: Winter returned to northern B.C. this morning when air of Alaskan origin swept down as a Pacific disturbance moved inland. Winds of gale force occurred over exposed waters and frequent snow showers were reported in the Queen Charlottes. Temperatures in southern B.C. were more moderate, however, and rain showers fell along the south coast. The Pacific system moved through the Interior this morning. Temperatures will show a downward trend. Some showers will occur but the main activity will be confined to the coastal mountains. Another Pacific system will move inland Saturday, giving more showers.

Jones Fined By Phil Boss

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 28 (BUP).—Willie (Puddinhead) Jones is trying to use his hat to break out of the Philadelphia Phillies "dog house."

The veteran third baseman was slapped with a $200 fine Thursday by manager Eddie Sawyer for unexplained "conduct unbecoming a Philadelphia player." It was the second highest spring training fine in history, topped only by the $5000 plaster once put on Babe Ruth by Miller Huggins.

Any Secret Formosa Deal Following Korea War Decried by Drew in House

OTTAWA, March 28 (CP).—The Canadian government was warned in the Commons Thursday night against entering any "secret under-the-table deal" to hand over the Island of Formosa to the Chinese Reds when the Korean War ends.

The warning came from George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, with the suggestion that such an arrangement would be no better than the Munich "appeasement" policy which delivered the German Sudetenland into Hitler's hands.

Drew spoke in a protracted foreign affairs debate in which he also served notice that his party will oppose a C.C.F. motion of non-confidence in the government on handling of economic aid under the North Atlantic Treaty.

He suggested the C.C.F. motion could be interpreted outside Canada as meaning the Commons is not fully behind a policy of collective action to maintain peace by strengthening the defenses of the treaty nations.

On the Formosa question, Drew said he felt External Affairs Minister Pearson earlier in the debate had "implied" that the government might be considering an arrangement to give Formosa to the Red Chinese government.

He drew that impression from Pearson's statement that no consideration should be given to the possibility of handing over Formosa to the Communist mainland government "while it is continuing aggression in Asia."

If the government adopted such a policy, it would be dealing with the millions of people living on Formosa as though they were "pawns in the game of diplomacy, with the cards being dealt under the table." Canada wanted "no secret arrangements" with regard to any country.

While Drew declared that his suggestion had nothing to do with support of Chiang Kai-Shek, one of his party members—W. J. Brown (St. John's West)—defended the Nationalist leader against criticism expressed of his regime earlier in the debate.

Brown said Chiang had been a "loyal ally" and it is a "disgrace for us, not only to have deserted him in his hour of need, but to malign him at the present time."

Two East Indians Jailed on Narcotic Possession Count

Two East Indians from Langford received six-month jail terms Thursday in provincial court for being in possession of morphine.

Sentenced were Dhana Singh and Ram Singh. The former was also fined $200 or an additional three months.

R.C.M.P. said the men were in possession of poppy heads which contained morphine.

Interior Man Faces Charge of Perjury

KAMLOOPS, March 28 (CP).—T. A. Johnson of Falkland, B.C., was committed to trial on a charge of perjury arising out of testimony given before an Assize Court jury which acquitted him of manslaughter.

Johnson was acquitted at the fall assizes of a manslaughter charge which followed the death of 12-year-old Gordon Turner of North Kamloops.

Turner was struck by Johnson's car as he was walking along the side of the highway. The perjury charge is based on testimony given by Johnson regarding a truck which he said forced him over to the side of the road.

BALLOONIST JUST TAKING JOY JAUNT

MINNEAPOLIS, March 28 (AP)—A mystery balloonist who upset central Wisconsin by landing like a "man from Mars" Thursday was only a weather researcher taking an unauthorized flight on his day off.

Charles Moore, in charge of balloon work for the aeronautical division of General Mills Inc., identified the balloonist as Nick Green of Minneapolis, who is employed in the firm's laboratory here.

Moore said Green rode a weather balloon 25 feet in diameter. It was filled with helium. The flier built up a mystery when he refused to talk upon landing.

B.C. Victory Forecast by Social Crediters

EDMONTON, March 28 (CP)—Social Crediters will contest all 48 seats at stake in the next British Columbia general election which is expected this summer, it was announced Thursday night by the B.C. party organizer.

The organizer, Peer V. Paynter of Vancouver, said in an interview that "we're going to elect a government."

He was one of a group of British Columbia Social Credit League officials who are in Edmonton for a two-day conference with national and Alberta party officials.

Social Credit organization will have no trouble finding a leader as the group has "a number of people who could be leaders."

With Mr. Paynter were Hugh Shantz, Vernon, and Allan Reid, Salmon Arm. It is expected that Lyle Wicks of Vancouver, B.C. S.C.L. president, will arrive later.

Mr. Paynter suggested the B.C. Fox Breeder Charles Dalton, lieutenant-governor of Prince Edward Island who died in 1933, was one of the island's pioneer silver fox breeders.

Vic High-Alberni Final Possible in Cage Tourney

The interesting possibility of Victoria High and Alberni meeting in the final for the B.C. high school basketball championship still looms as a possibility today following second-round play at U.B.C. in the annual provincial hoop meet, Thursday.

Alberni and Vic High, winner and runner-up respectively in the Island tournament, remained on the unbeaten trail Thursday night, Alberni swamping Powell River, 60-28, and Vic High nipping a persistent Chilliwack quintet 43-36.

The third Island entry, Mount View, rebounded from a first-round defeat to squeeze past Oliver, 28-27.

Alberni had no trouble disposing of Powell River as they ran up a 25-13 lead at the half and pulled away in the second half. Ron Gray hooped 19 points to give him a total of 48 for two games.

JAHRAUS HIGH

Vic High grabbed a 21-10 lead in the first half, fought off a determined rally in the third quarter and consolidated the win by controlling play in the last quarter. Jim Jahraus registered 24 points for Vic High.

Mount View's gold dust twins, Alan Snowsall and Ken Murray, were the heroes of the suburbanites' narrow victory over Oliver.

WINNING SHOT

With three seconds left in the game, the score was tied 27-27. Murray was fouled and calmly sank his free throw for the one-point margin of victory. Murray's nine points was high for the winners while Snowsall's eight paced his club to a 128 edge at the half.

Other scores were Mission 47, Trapp 28, Delta 21, South Burnaby 80, Grand Forks 29, Creston 30, Gibsons Landing 29, Kamloops 47, Lord Tweedsmuir 37.

Tonight Vic High meets Mission in semifinal bracket, Alberni meets Duke of Connaught in the other while Mount View tangles with Kamloops.

Line-ups follow:
Alberni-Jack Modell 12, Ron McLean 2, Dave Williamson 12, Claude Schmitt 1, Jack Perry 1, Ron Gray 19, Bill Martineau 1, Pat Sawyer, Bob Nicol 3, Total 60.

Mount View-Alan Snowsall 8, Ken Murray 8, John Pritchard 2, Dick Grainger, Dave Price 2, Knud Knudsen 2, Robin Knudsen, Don Prince, Alvin Falt, Total 28.

Oliver-Lyle Graham 8, Ken Fleming, Mickey Martino 1, Orde Jones 2, Bob Hadley 1, Gordon Gidd, Frank Fritz 7, Bill Martineau 1, Lloyd Thomas 1, Len Layk, Total 27.

Chilliwack-Alex Arncliffe 6, Keith MacDonald 2, Graham Geldart 1, Peter Hovort 3, Jim Edwards 2, Art Nechtal 3, Dick Wenden 6, Jack Duffe 8, Bob Cathro, Total 36.

Rugger Season at Close With Barnard Cup Final

The Victoria Rugby Union's 1951-52 season will officially close Saturday with the scheduling of two playoff games at Macdonald Park.

On the upper field, Oak Bay Wanderers and Crusaders will clash in a sudden-death contest for the Barnard Cup, emblematic of city senior rugby supremacy, while on the lower pitch, J.B.A.A. and Victoria College will battle for the Times Cup and second-division supremacy.

Wanderers and Crusaders earned the right to meet in the senior fixture when they defeated J.B.A.A. and Victoria College, respectively, in the sudden-death semifinals last week.

Wanderers will use Ron Hurley for their second-division squad to replace Ralph MacLean. Additional strength in the persons of Derek Hyde-Lay and John Shipley will be with Crusaders.

The winner of Saturday's contest will travel to Vancouver April 5 for the B.C. championship. Vancouver teams in the running are South Burnaby and Vindex.

STUBBY JOHNSON
... Wanderer stalwart

The second-division champions will also travel to the mainland April 5.

Both games start at 2.30.

Nanaimo Entry Accepted In City Lacrosse League

Nanaimo Jets are the newest entry in the Greater Victoria Box Lacrosse Association.

At an association meeting in the British Public Schools building Thursday night, the G.V.B.L.A. officials accepted Nanaimo's entry in the senior B league, bringing the number of entries to three. Foul Bay and Jokers are the two Victoria teams.

League officials report there is a possibility that Tillicum, although they have not yet filed entry, may bring the total to four.

The league schedule will start May 6 at Nanaimo's Civic Arena. Harry Porter, manager of the Nanaimo arena, requested that Jokers, long a rival of Nanaimo, play the opening game.

Tentative plans call for Victoria teams to play in Nanaimo every Tuesday with Nanaimo playing there every second Friday.

Each team will be responsible for its road expenses with the home team retaining its gate receipts. At the end of the regular season the second and third-place teams will play a semifinal series for the right to meet the top

EILERS GAIN WESTERN FINAL

EDMONTON, Alta., March 28 (BUP).—Vancouver Eilers downed the Edmonton Meteors 65-52 Thursday night to win their best-of-three western Canada senior men's basketball semifinals, two games to one.

The Meteors won the opener Tuesday 67-58 and dropped the second game 67-65.

Eilers left immediately for Winnipeg where they will play the Varsity Grads in the western finals.

Wings Nip Leafs, Broda; Habs Win, Lose Mosdell

DETROIT, March 28 (CP).—Tubby Turk Broda, too old to help during the regular National Hockey League season and at least 12 pounds over his best playing weight, may become Toronto Maple Leaf's chief hope of stopping the onrushing Detroit Red Wings in the Stanley Cup playoffs.

The 37-year-old Turk made a dramatic return from near retirement Thursday night and came within an eyelash of unfolding one of hockey's great comebacks. Only a cheap first-period Red Wing goal by a rookie, left-winger Johnny Wilson, robbed Broda of one of his great moments.

It was the only goal of the night and it put the Wings, N.H.L. champions, two games up in their best-of-seven semifinals. The teams now move to Toronto for the third and fourth games Saturday and Tuesday nights.

The Leafs played their hearts out for Broda who, at 37, is the oldest man in the big time, but they couldn't get past Terry Sawchuk, Vezina trophy winner this season who now has two straight playoff shutouts. But it was the Turk's night and he hugged his 202 pounds around the nets in almost perfect style.

He made his 100th playoff game incidentally, a record on his greatest. And the old performer drew praise from Conn Smythe, the Leafs' managing director, Detroit manager Jack Adams and most of the 15,116 crowd that rocked Olympia Stadium with their cheers for Broda.

SAWCHUK ONE BETTER
At first the crowd thought Smythe's use of Broda was just a sentimental gesture to allow the Turk to play in his 100th playoff game. Sentimental or not, the blue and white team played it with all the stops out but bumped up against one of Sawchuk's better games.

"I thought I had the winning goal blocked," Broda said in the dressing room. Metro Prystal set up the goal with a pass to Alex Delvecchio 20 feet in front of the net. Broda made a great stop of it but Wilson, appearing in his third playoff game, and standing by the net, flicked in the rebound for his second goal of the series.

It came at 15.33, just after Toronto defenseman Bill Juzda was penalized for boarding. And Windex drew another decent scoring chance.

Hornets Gain A.H.L. Final

Pittsburgh Hornets have advanced to the finals of the American Hockey League, accomplishing this Thursday night on Bob Solinger's goal at 1:54 of the second-overtime period.

The goal gave Pittsburgh a 4-3 decision over Hershey Bears and enabled them to take the best-of-seven "A" series four games to one.

Pittsburgh, winners of the A.H.L. championship and the western division title, now will meet the winner of the Providence-Cincinnati semifinal.

Providence qualified for the best-of-five series by ousting Cleveland Barons, 4-2, in the deciding game of their best-of-five set.

TIME OUT! By Jeff Kente

"OUT? Why you blind, yellow-livered, no-good rat! If this wasn't just an exhibition game I'd beef on that decision!"

MONTREAL, March 28 (CP)

Boom-Boom Geoffrion's game-busting hat trick and Gerry McNellie's goal-tending wizardry left Boston Bruins with a mountain-size task today if they hope to overhaul the free-running Montreal Canadiens.

The amazing Montreal rookie spaced his three goals through as many periods Thursday night to lead his mates to a 4-0 trouncing of the Bruins and give Canadiens the first two games of the Stanley Cup semifinal.

The best-of-seven series in the annual hockey scramble, with the Bruins decidedly on the spot, now moves on to Boston. The third and fourth games will be played there Sunday and Tuesday.

Geoffrion's triple followed a first-period goal by Ken Mosdell, centre of Canadiens' checking line. A few minutes later, Mosdell crashed into the boards and suffered a double fracture of the right leg.

Once that first goal was safely stowed away, Canadiens romped merrily along on the Boomer's marksmanship but they needed little McNellie to hold them together when the frustrated Bruins threw all they had into desperate offensives.

There was more vim and vigor to the Bruins' attack than they showed Tuesday when they were walloped 5-1.

Their front lines worked better, they bored deep into Montreal territory with more consistency but they couldn't beat the agile little goalie, who dived headlong to the ice at least half a dozen times for sensational saves.

SECOND PLAYER LOSS
Mosdell's loss is a blow to Canadiens. He is the second Canadian lost in less than a week. Johnny McCormack suffered a broken arm last Saturday night while playing against Detroit Red Wings in the second-last game of the regular season.

Island Titles Awarded City Minor Soccer Clubs

Because there is no further opposition on Vancouver Island, five teams in the Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Football Association have been named island titleholders.

Divisional champions are: Junior, Combines; division I, Tillicums; division II, Army, Navy and Air Force-Vets; division III, James Bay Merchants, and division V, Eagles.

The only team which has an upper island opponent is the division IV Mic Macs, which will meet Nanaimo Juniors for the Vancouver Island title Sunday at lower Beacon Hill at 1 p.m.

The division IV league game previously scheduled for Saturday has been canceled.

Revised week-end schedule follows:

Lead Flyers In P.C.H.L. Playoff Set

Saskatoon 2, Edmonton 1

Edmonton Flyers, who have picked up only one goal in two Pacific Coast Hockey League playoff games, have scant time left to oil their scoring machine.

One more loss would eliminate Flyers from their best-of-five quarterfinal series with Saskatoon Quakers.

George Senick's goal at 18.56 of the third period Thursday at Saskatoon gave Quakers a 2-1 victory over Flyers and a 2-0 lead in games.

Flyers were blanked 2-0 in the opening contest of the series, which continues Saturday night at Edmonton.

Edmonton goalie Bill Brennan had no chance on Senick's goal. Ken Hunter outfooted two Flyers in the corner after taking a pass from Carl Kaiser and flicked the puck to Senick, uncovered just to the right and in front of the Flyer net.

Edmonton pulled Brennan with 55 seconds remaining, but Flyers were unable to shake loose from the close-checking Quakers.

Chuck McCullough scored the first Saskatoon goal from Doug Bentley at 8:19 of the first period, and Jim Uniacke tied the score at 15:18 of the second. Eddie Thomas and Howie Cox assisting.

TIGHT CHECKING

Checking was so close in the final period that Brennan and Worsley each made only three saves during the first 11 minutes. It looked, for a time, as though the game would go into overtime. The tense game was played before a sellout crowd of more than 5,300. Over the thrill-soaked 60 minutes both clubs took turns at carrying an edge on play.

PLAY TONIGHT

At Seattle, Ironmen and Tacoma Rockets clash in the second game of their best-of-five quarterfinal tonight. Rockets took the first game earlier this week 6-1. First Period—1, Saskatoon, McCullough (Bentley) 9:18. Penalties—Cox 4:00, Fowler 11:29.
Second Period—2, Edmonton, Uniacke (Thomas, Cox) 15:18. Penalties—Pettigrew 8:25, McCullough 15:44, Hends 18:56.
Third Period—3, Saskatoon, Senick (Bentley) 18:56.
Shots—Brennan 13-13-24. Worsley 7-11-4-24.

With the memory of last week's defeat by New Westminster Royals still weighing heavily on their minds, Victoria United will experiment with line-up changes Saturday for their Coast Soccer League match with Vancouver Firefighters at Athletic Park.

'ROCK' ROCKS ROY WOUTERS

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 28 (BUP).—Ex-middle-weight champ Rocky Graziano scored a technical knockout at 2:35 of the first round here last night over Roy Wouters of Vancouver, B.C.

The fight was billed as a 10-round main event, with Wouters being tagged as an awkward but willing brawler.

Graziano blasted Wouters with a raising right uppercut that clipped about an inch of the Canadian's chin. Wouters went down like he was poleaxed, setting off a torrent of boos and jeers by irate fans who hoped, at least, to see the fabulous "Rock" in action for a few rounds.

CAT COACH CONFIDENT OF SQUARING SERIES

Leger, Forbes Agree 'Cougars Tough'

By BILL WALKER

It's paradoxical, perhaps, but there's one thing concerning the current P.C.H.L. semifinal playoff series between Victoria Cougars and New Westminster Royals on which rival coaches Roger Leger and Jake Forbes agree.

And that is that the Cougars are mighty tough to beat, not in the Victoria rink, but in the New Westminster arena.

Earlier this year when the Royals were giving the Cougars their lumps regularly here, but were taking a return dosage in New Westminster, Forbes said he would "far rather play in Victoria. The larger ice surface is more suited to our style of play."

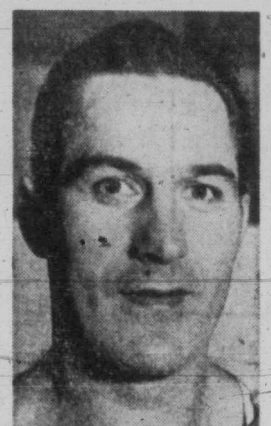

He also admitted that the Cougars showed to better advantage at New Westminster than they did at home.

On the first count, Forbes may have had reason to change his mind. The Cougars in their last three games against the Royals have settled for a tie and two smashing seven-goal victories.

On the second, the season's record speaks for itself. During the regular schedule the Cougars split 3-3-1 with the Royals at Westminster.

Leger agrees with Forbes' opinion up to a point, that being the Cougars' aptitude in New Westminster.

However, the Cougar mentor also holds that by skating with the Royals, the Cougars can also be their masters at Victoria and avers they will prove it tonight at Memorial Arena.

JOE MEDYNSKI
... secret weapon?

As an example of the trust he holds in the club at the moment, it matters not to Leger whether the Reg Abbott-Bob Frampton-Andy Heberton line or the Walt Atanas-Doug Anderson-Lea Hockey unit shadows the Royals' power trio of Bob Paul, Gordon Fashaway and Guyle Fielder. "Either line can do it," he said.

And another point which may be the tipoff on what can be expected from a strategic angle is the announcement that Joe Medynski, the 15th man, will see more than bench duty tonight. Medynski, it will be recalled, rose to his greatest heights in the Portland series of last year.

It would appear from this discreet revelation that the seond game of the series may rival the first game for close checking with the Cougars asking no quarter and giving none.

And if Leger and his eager Cougars square the series tonight, they should be even money for the third game at New Westminster on Saturday.

At least both coaches have stated at one time or another that the Cougars are to be feared at Queens Park. The club itself proved that in the 3-2 loss Wednesday.

Game time tonight is 8.30.

On the OUTDOOR FRONT

By ROY THORSEN

The three biggest salmon taken on August 24 in Saanich Inlet will net the catchers three prizes worth a total of $3,200.

This will be fish-off day for the 400 members of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association who gain the "master ladder" in the 10-week derby which opens June 4.

Guy James reports the first-prize cruiser in the fishoff should arrive here around the end of the month. The sleek 18-foot craft, worth $2,300, will be assembled and displayed in the Orr & James showrooms, 1210 Wharf.

Club secretary George Douglas reports that the second-prize refrigerator and the third-prize combination radio-phonograph "each worth over $400" have been purchased. He also says the early run on membership tickets is indicative of added interest in the 1952 fishfest. Cliff Heglin, derby chairman, and Douglas will meet in the boathouse operators next week to finalize plans for competition at that end.

A writer who identified himself only as one "wisdom," dropped a letter with his views on how to operate a "non-loss" ladder derby.

He says the derby should cover four months, from the beginning of May to end of August. First prize each month would be a "ladder button" with suitable wording on it.

"At the end of August, if funds are available, one-half of funds should go to the member weighing in the biggest salmon caught in the four months," he suggests.

Saanich Inlet is still rated a good spot for salmon (blueback) fishing.

Goldstream and Brentwood end boathouse operators report evening and morning fishing's best times.

Bucktail flies are still the most popular lure with the young salmon. "Few fish caught on anything but bucktail," was the Goldstream report.

Goldstream-fishermen Jack and Norman Kennedy were back at the float at 9 Tuesday morning with their limit of 20. The same morning E. Enley and C. James got their limits. Sophie and Lorne Heglin reeled in 18.

Other blueback catches recorded at that end: D. and S. Jenkins, 16; Mr. Pittford, 9; Jumbo Davies and son, Bruce, 16; C. M. Morgan and B. Harvey, 11; A. W. Scroggs and R. Evans, 11; Fred Tull, Allan Neilson and J. M. McDonald, 30; C. M. Woolard and C. R. James, 20 limit; Charlie Panting, 9; Walter Evenson of Calgary and A. C. Anderson, 9; F. Thew, 7; G. Keithley and F. Garside, 9; R. Wright, 7; Mrs. A. W. Scroggs, 6; Ray Rickinson, 7; W. Thickett, 7; S. Jenkins, 9; J. Pullen and J. Reed, 9; Don Beale and partner, 9; Jack O'Hara and partner, 19; Margaret Hall, 8; C. R. James and R. G. Huddleston, 20; A. Ball from Edmonton, Neilson and Tull, 30.

Evening fishing off Whittaker's Point is said to be a hot spot by Brentwood operators.

Local game office reports springs and bluebacks plentiful off Duncan, Sansum Narrows and Tent Island.

The orange flatfish is rated the best bet from results in Shawinigan Lake. Game office rates Dougan Lake (Cobble Hill) as best fly fishing bet on this end of the island at present.

Trout fishing is said to be good at Courtenay area's Puntledge River and also at Campbell River, according to private reports to Stan Williams. He also said Prospect Lake fishing had picked up lately.

Roger Monteith points out that at this time of the year in lower island lakes there is a good hatch of flies and lots of trout moving. "But it takes a special technique to catch them," he noted that Rod Smith and Jack Grey couldn't tie into a fish Wednesday morning at Dougan's, "but they trimmed their dry flies and finished up with 17."

Jack Harris reports that fishing guide Joe Hancock at the Cowichan River headquarters says the fish "are definitely coming up and are taking both dry and wet flies."

Harris reported the fishing team of Alan McPhee and Gordy Lamont scored 14 trout in Cowichan River upper reaches during the week-end. They were using a brown and white wet fly. Trevor Smith caught two sparkling steelhead in the Cowichan in the vicinity of the old road bridge this week. Roy Watson caught a fresh steelhead in Cowichan, then switched operations to Shawinigan last week-end and boated eight trout.

Colquitz Creek in the Burnside and district sector is attracting a lot of attention. There's big trout in the creek. Harris says someone he only knows as Smith this week told him he'd caught three trout in the creek, all of them just a fraction under three pounds.

Two local men, E. Doug Wood (of the Queen's Printer) and Dick Van der Meer, in charge of the Goldstream flats clubhouse of the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association are doing their bit to carry on the great work of the late Jack Miner. They are in the throes of establishing some 100 homes for tree-nesting ducks around lower island lakes, but need help from the public.

Wood is appealing for small-size nail kegs. "We've got 45, but need a lot more to complete our home-building project," he said. Donations can be either dropped off at the clubhouse or give Wood a ring at E1610 and he'll pick them up.

They have established the homes at the Malahat's Oliphant and Spectacle Lakes, Elk Lake, Dougan Lake, in Saanich Inlet and Goldstream flats and two in Beacon Hill Park. They will place more this week-end at Thetis and Beaver Lakes.

Their aim is to build up the population of tree-nesting wildfowl in this area by providing them with shelters.

National Wild Life Week will be held this year April 6 to 12. The week always falls on the week of April 10, which was the late Miner's birthday.

Brittle Battlers Meet

NEW YORK, March 28 (UP).—The guy who "gets the break" probably will lose tonight when two somewhat brittle gladiators—Johnny Bratton and Rocky Castellani—meet in a television 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

Dusky Bratton of Chicago, former N.B.A. welterweight champion, has suffered three broken jaws and several hand injuries during his eight-year career. In fact, he is fighting tonight because a bruised left fist prevented a Garden appearance March 14.

Middleweight Castellani of Luzerne, Pa., has suffered three hand fractures and an army injury in six years of leather tossing. Although Bratton appeared to have the edge in fragility, he nevertheless was favored at 7-5 today to spoil brown-haired Castellani's return to the Garden under a new manager and a new trainer.

Foul Premium Increased Under New Hoop Rulings

SEATTLE, March 28 (AP).—The choice of whether to take the ball out of bounds or shoot for a free point after a foul has been taken away from the players by the National Basketball Committee of the United States and Canada.

The committee disclosed that the new rule, tried out last night by Illinois and Santa Clara in the consolation finals of the N.C.A.A. tournament, actually had been adopted before the game.

Announcement was withheld until today, however, as the committee wished to see the game and determine if any revisions were advisable.

While requiring him to shoot all fouls, the rule gives a player an extra shot if the first one is missed. This holds during the first 37 minutes of play in college, Y.M.C.A. and Amateur Athletic Union games. High school teams will play 39 minutes of their games under this bonus plan.

NO WAIVER

During the last three minutes of all games every foul called will provide for two free shots, and there will be no waiver. During high school overtime, the automatic two-shot regulation will remain in force. In other games, the bonus shot will apply for the first two minutes of overtime and the automatic two-shot system for the remaining three minutes.

At any time during the game a player fouled in the act of shooting will get two shots, as in the past—or one if he has made the field goal. The rules regarding possession of the ball after a free throw were not changed. If the point is made, the ball goes to the defending team out of bounds under the basket. If the second shot is missed the ball is in play.

If a foul is clearly intentional during the first portion of the game the offended player will be given two shots, whether he makes or misses the first try.

Two games have been scheduled in the Football Association Cup semifinals in the United Kingdom Saturday.

At Hillsborough, Blackburn Rovers will take on Newcastle United, while at the Tottenham Hotspurs' home grounds in London, Chelsea will battle Arsenal.

CLEVELAND TO APPLY FOR ENTRY IN N.H.L.

CLEVELAND, March 28 (BUP).—General manager Jim Hendy of the Cleveland Barons said Thursday he would make formal application after the Calder Cup playoffs were over for entry into the National Hockey League.

Hendy said there was nothing new about reports the defending American Hockey League champions would enter the National League.

"Those reports have been kicking around for a year," he said. "Naturally we'd like to be in the National League and we've let the governors know about it. But we've made no formal application yet."

He said he was confident Cleveland could support the team in the National League.

Soccer School Continues

The Dominion Football Association will hold its second in a series of six soccer classes for Victoria youngsters at MacDonald Park, Saturday morning at 10. The classes are open to boys from six to 15.

Fundamentals such as kicking, dribbling, trapping, passing, ball control and checking will be taught.

Royals Even Ice Series

The round-robin series for the Victoria Minor Hockey Association midget division championship went into a three-way tie Thursday night when Senators defeated Maroons, 4-2. Royals are the other team in the series. Each club has won one game.

Steve Foster was the fair-haired boy in Thursday's contest. After receiving a nasty cut over his eye in the first minute of play, he returned to score three of the winners' four goals.

Murray Little scored Senators' fourth goal.

Allan Taylor and Bob Harrison scored for the losers.

The fourth game of the round-robin series will be played Saturday morning at 6.30, with Royals meeting Maroons.

Socialism is only a step towards Communism, Clarke Christie, manager of the Victoria office of Swift Canadian Company, told members of the Oak Bay Kiwanis Club Thursday.

Christie, speaking on "This Is Our Problem," said in his opinion socialism and communism or nationalization meant the same thing.

He said Communists are out to destroy Canada as a free country.

DE PAUR CHORUS WELL DISCIPLINED

Audience Breathless With Wonder

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

One of the truly great experiences of the musical season in Victoria came Thursday night. The de Paur Infantry Chorus, on their fifth annual tour, presented a fine program of music and left the audience breathless with wonder. The words bubbling from the tongue-tips.

AMAZING ACCOMPANIMENT

Then there was the Brazilian Gaucho Song, sung in Portuguese, one of several that had an amazing accompaniment for the solo singer. No chorus I have ever heard so perfectly approximated the plucked and twanged instruments of a South American orchestra.

To begin with, it is a magnificent body of tone, with textural and color resources equal to those of a symphony orchestra. And de Paur conducts with absolute control. The sensitive response to his slightest gesture, the movement of his head or foot even, evokes the most subtle variations of contrast, emphasis and meaning.

Here is no mere time-beating, no waste energy or unfruitful gesture. Here is a great vitality, a supreme conviction, a confident and devoted musicianship that flows into the ensemble of trained and gifted singers from their conductor, and out through their lips in a polished, artful ecstasy of song.

Take the opening "Credo" for instance; the "belief" uttered passionately in broad, massive sculptures of tone. Or the Spanish "Calla, No Llores," from Bolivia.

As I overheard someone say when the light went up: "Come back soon, Leonard de Paur, with your Infantry Chorus!"

HAMLET'S SOURCE

LONDON (CP)—Tyrone Guthrie, director of the Old Vic Theatre, said during a lecture he would bet that Shakespeare had not "the vaguest idea" what he was doing when writing "Hamlet."

Guthrie said it was produced from his subconscious.

As I overheard someone say when the light went up: "Come back soon, Leonard de Paur, with your Infantry Chorus!"

Several of the singers took extensive solo parts during the evening and when one heard these individual voices, it was easy to understand the magnificent tonal quality of the whole.

It was a long program to which two encores were added—"Sixpence" and an air force version of the Whiffanpoof song, but the audience kept calling for "more, more!"

JOB ADVERTISING

LONDON (CP).—An "old school tie" suggestion that employers should advertise jobs in school magazines was put forward by the Incorporated Association of Preparatory Schools.

It suggested this would help boys at an early age to choose their future careers.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

When I arrived home yesterday afternoon, after a hard day slaving over a hot typewriter, my favorite wife informed me that she, herself, had accomplished something more newsworthy than I could boast of.

Just by going for a walk along the rocks at Albert Head, she told me, she had achieved an interview with Cabotusaurus, and had well-documented notes to prove it.

I was a little surprised to hear this, as Caddy has been somewhat shy of late, but naturally, I was eager to learn if he had said anything about the reason for his recent visit to Vancouver, as reported by two English Bay fishermen, so I read her notes immediately.

They seem fairly complete, so here they are:

Saw strange object in water 200 yards away. Looked like description of Caddy, so I waved object to come closer. Object obliged, and I said "Hi." Object nodded politely, also said "Hi."

"You Caddy?" I asked.

"Who else?" was reply.

"What you been doing in Vancouver?" I demanded, and Caddy looked unhappy.

"Didn't know news would get around," he said. "Also, didn't like way reports were worded. Didn't like report I had horse's head. What would I do with horse's head, I have one of my own."

"Don't change subject," I said. "What were you doing in Vancouver?"

"It's like this," Caddy admitted. "Us civic employees, we never know what's going to happen these days. Never know when the mayor's going to pare our herring allowance right down to nothing."

"With all the economy going around in Victoria these days, us civic employees have to keep an ace in the hole, so to speak. So I thought I'd just sort-of look things over around the mainland."

"Don't let it get around, but I've had offers, you know."

"I see you're back, though," I said. "What happened?"

"Most horrible experience," said the object. "Nearly broke my back. I was swimming along, and from the pattern of the bottom, I figured I was at the entrance to False Creek, so thought I'd come up and have a look around."

"Well, I swam up toward the surface, and kept going up and up, and I got this ringing sensation in my ears, and felt dizzy."

"Suddenly I realized what had happened. I wasn't swimming in the sea at all; it was raining so hard, I was swimming right through a rainstorm 200 feet in the air."

"I was so shocked, I stopped swimming, and fell, kerplunk, into the water."

"Nearly broke my back. So I decided to come back here. Rather take my chances with a cut in my herring allowance than with that Vancouver weather."

Everybody can relax, then. Caddy will be with us for the tourist season.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

Dr. A. E. Whitehouse, minister of Metropolitan Church, will be absent from his pulpit for the next few Sundays.

The minister is in Royal Jubilee Hospital recovering from a broken ankle which he sustained in a fall.

Tenders will be called for lighting fixtures, in the new city detective office.

City engineering department reported to the police commission Thursday that the fixtures would cost $10.

"Let's put it out to tender," said Mayor Claude Harrison, "then we will be beyond criticism. He suggested calling for tenders for painting of the building as well."

Fourteen-year-old Janet Wright is still unconscious in Jubilee Hospital as the result of injuries suffered last Friday when struck by a motorcycle.

The hospital reported today she has shown slight improvement and spent a fairly good night Thursday.

The youngster suffered skull and leg fractures when hit by a motorcycle on Esquimalt Road and Rothwell.

Soothing the frayed tempers of traffic offenders has proved too trying a job for city police traffic clerk Barbara Jackson.

She tendered her resignation Thursday to the police commission after advising Police Chief John Blackstock that she "feels the work too strenuous."

Members of the zone council of the Canadian Legion in this district Thursday night elected Norman Wharf as vice-chairman.

Zone commander is Peter Barr, chosen at an earlier meeting.

Col. R. B. Longridge was re-elected secretary. W. C. Hudson was appointed the zone's representative on the Queen Alexandra Solarium board.

A coffee-drinking prowler is being sought by city police.

Peter G. Hartnell reported to city police that someone has entered a suite at the Thunderbird Apartments on Douglas on several occasions and helped themselves to cups of coffee.

Police suggested that the lock on the door should be changed.

Fined $35 for failing to remain at the scene of an accident was Donald B. Eastman, Stevenson, B.C., when he appeared in police court today.

He pleaded guilty to the charge.

License suspensions followed $35 fines for careless driving when motorists Donald E. Ryan, 535 Fraser, and John M. Jewkes, 1666 McRae, pleaded guilty to the charges.

John Sauter, 1226 Feltham Road, reported to police Thursday the theft of a tire and tube valued at $100 from his truck which was parked in the Empress Garage on Wharf Street last week.

A middle-aged man punched the till of a cash register at Kresge's store here Thursday and escaped with $10.

City police are investigating and have a description of the man.

Three car loads of city police officers were sent to 1135 Yates Street Thursday night after a resident there complained of being bothered by a "peeping tom."

The sight of six policemen was too much for him—he shut his peepers and fled.

Police searched the district without results.

Sailing time for H.M.C.S. Ontario, leaving Monday on a 25-day cruise to Pearl Harbor and San Francisco, has been set for 11 in the morning.

Relatives and friends will be welcomed to see the ship off. She leaves from the main jetty at H.M.C.S. Naden.

Three trumpeter swans wintering in this area have been at the Portage Inlet flats for the last three weeks.

Retired B.C. police inspector Robert Owens, 2839 Murray Drive, reported the birds had been swimming close off shore since their arrival. He said they came within a few yards of the float at the bottom of Robert Irvine's property.

Trumpeter swans are rarely seen in this area.

Nomination meeting of Oak Bay Progressive Conservative Association will be held April 7 in St. Mary's Hall.

Only members holding 1952 membership cards issued 30 days prior to April 7 will be entitled to vote.

Keith MacDougall is president.

Victoria Social Credit delegates will be chosen for the nomination convention of the party here at a special meeting April 10.

Voters' List For Victoria Area Boosted

Preliminary estimates indicate that from 5,000 to 6,000 new voters will be eligible to cast their ballots in Greater Victoria in the next provincial election.

Government sources indicated today that the total number of registered voters in Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt ridings will reach from 75,000 to 78,000. It was 71,000 in the 1949 provincial election.

Forgetful Driver City Jail Lodger

A motorist who "just forgot" to obey a police summons on a parking infraction wound up spending the night in jail Thursday.

Harvey L. Best, 1011 View, was fined $250 for the parking infraction in police court today.

Magistrate H. C. Hall asked Best why he had failed to obey the summons to appear in court.

"I just forgot," said Best.

"And how long did you have to spend in jail?" asked the magistrate.

"I was in jail since 5.30 yesterday after I came down to the station about the summons," Best replied.

"Well, you see the consequences of not obeying the summons now, don't you?" said the magistrate.

Margaret Truman Will Meet Qualicum Godmother

Margaret Truman's godmother, Mrs. C. S. Calhoun, who lives in Qualicum Beach, will see the President's daughter "for the first time since she was a little girl" in Vancouver next week.

Mrs. Calhoun was born in Kansas City and since childhood has been a close friend of Mrs. Harry Truman. At the time of Margaret's christening, Mrs. Calhoun was living in Toronto, and acted as "godmother by proxy."

"I haven't seen any of the family for a good many years," Mrs. Calhoun told The Daily Times this morning. "I'm certainly looking forward to seeing Margaret, and catching up on the family gossip."

"Mrs. Truman and I have known each other since we were very young, and have always kept up a correspondence."

Mrs. Calhoun and her husband, an Englishman who has been in Canada for many years, have lived on Vancouver Island since 1945, and last fall moved to Qualicum Beach.

In Seattle Thursday Miss Truman said she was hoping that Mrs. Calhoun would attend the B.C. concert.

She will sing in Victoria, at the Royal Theatre, on Tuesday evening. On Monday, Miss Truman will officially open the 1952 Conquer Cancer Campaign. She will be a guest at Government House luncheon on Monday, but will stay at the Empress Hotel.

Yogi's Followers Here Admit Payment of Fees

By HUMPHRY DAVY

The Vedanta Cultural Society formed to promote the philosophy of Yoga admitted today that its president, Hindu Swami Shivananda, had charged fees for his Yoga lessons while in Victoria this winter.

The society's announcement is in direct contradiction to a claim allegedly made by the young Hindu to the immigration department in Vancouver that he had only received voluntary contributions from his followers.

The society made the statement in view of reports it had received that Swami Shivananda was in difficulty with the immigration department and the Canadian Sikh population.

The Swami earlier this week charged that the immigration department had ordered him to stop his Yoga lessons and to go home to India. The Swami hinted at the same time that Sikhs of the Vancouver area had agitated against his "cultural classes."

The Immigration Department and the Sikhs subsequently denied the charges of interfering with the work of the Hindu.

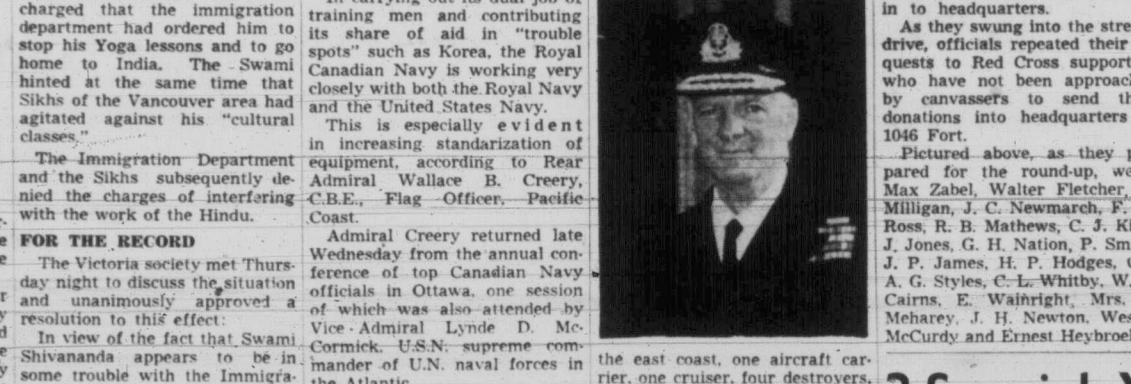

Members also felt that they were not responsible for statements made in the name of the society by the Swami unless endorsed first by the membership or its executive.

It also went on record as having no quarrel with the Immigration Department, the Sikh population or Swami Shivananda himself.

Meanwhile, the Vedanta Cultural Society of Vancouver has taken the opposite stand, claiming that he has received "voluntary contributions" from his followers. The group is also supporting him in his charges against the Immigration Department.

FLEETS WORK IN HARMONY

Manpower Now Adequate For Navy, Creery Says

In carrying out its dual job of training men and contributing its share of aid in "trouble spots" such as Korea, the Royal Canadian Navy is working very closely with both the Royal Navy and the United States Navy.

This is especially evident in increasing standardization of equipment, according to Rear Admiral Wallace B. Creery, C.B.E., Flag Officer, Pacific Coast.

Admiral Creery returned late Wednesday from the annual conference of top Canadian Navy officials in Ottawa, a session of which was also attended by Vice Admiral Lynde D. McCormick, U.S.N., supreme commander of U.N. naval forces in the Atlantic.

There is intimate co-operation between the three naval forces as they prepare for mutual defense if necessary.

With 13,000 men in the permanent force, Canada's navy has about achieved the correct balance between men and ships, Admiral Creery states. With the highly specialized training needed in a modern navy, men must go ashore for technical training at frequent intervals if they are to progress in the service, he points out.

TECHNICAL POOL

Thus the number of ships maintained in-service is to some extent governed by the number of trained men to serve them. There is a constant shifting of personnel from ships to shore establishments as training progresses, to provide a constant reservoir of the technical experts needed.

Canada's active ships at the present time include: Based on the east coast, one aircraft carrier, one cruiser, four destroyers, two frigates, three minesweepers and eight miscellaneous craft.

In reserve in the east are two destroyers, six frigates, 11 minesweepers and two smaller ships.

The Pacific coast has, in active service, one cruiser, four destroyers, two frigates, one minesweeper and five miscellaneous craft. In reserve are one frigate and three minesweepers.

RESERVES NEEDED

Admiral Creery reports that the permanent force's intake of new men is very satisfactory, but that more are needed in the reserve forces.

Beyond the statement that it was "fortunate" that Vice Admiral McCormick could be in Ottawa during the conference, Admiral Creery could make no report on discussions with the U.N. naval chief.

"Everything on the agenda, of course, was highly classified," he stated.

SINGERS THUMP FOR RELAXATION

Choir Discipline Rules Off Stage

By IRVING STRICKLAND

Times Photographer

As Told to Ron Baird

Thumps on the chest and glasses of water are the prescribed backstage treatment for members of the de Paur Infantry Chorus.

It's all part of the limbering-up process of the fine perfectly-disciplined group of singers who received thundering rounds of applause at the Royal Theatre Thursday night.

I watched the 32-man chorus go through their paces before the curtain went up and came away with the feeling that if water and chest poundings are necessary ingredients for an all-male choir, the de Paur chorus were the boys to put on the show.

I watched as they downed glasses of water at one gulp, thumped each other on the chest and did the whole thing with military precision.

There's no backstage kidding with the de Paur chorus. Everything is done by command or a motion of the hand—assistant conductor Clarence Jacobs blew a note on a pitch pipe once before the curtain went up at 8.30 and the singers mounted their portable platforms and stood ready to go through their program.

I was told by the driver of the chorus' $25,000 bus that conductor Leonard de Paur operates on the principle that singing in his chorus is "strictly business—if they don't like it, they get out."

The perfect discipline of the chorus was one of the points that Victorians noted Thursday night.

De Paur recruits his singers from eastern music academies—he has ten new men this year, the rest have been with him since the chorus was first formed.

Two veterans of the Korean war are members of the group—one is a captain and the other a lieutenant, both subject to recall and in the reserve now.

There was no talking on stage before the curtain went up. But once it did, the silence was broken with some of the finest choral singing Victoria has heard in ages.

(See review on Page 12).

Luck Ran Out, So Did Cycle

A city policeman was fined $10 Thursday for leaving his motorcycle and sidecar unattended with engine running.

But it was not as simple as it sounds.

Constable Ed Hamer did what he and other constables on motorcycle duty do every day of their lives. Chief of Police John Blackstock told the police commission, hearing the case. He got off the vehicle but left the motor running.

This time the motorcycle slipped its gear and left Constable Hamer dismounted and discomfited.

It hit a pole at Fisgard and Douglas. The sidecar was damaged extensively.

"It seems a bit careless," commented Mayor C. L. Harrison. Hamer's fine was the same any private citizen would have paid for the same offense—leaving a vehicle unattended with motor running.

Court Hears Ship Master

Murder Trial Jury Recalled to Duty In Case Where Body Still Unfound

Dong Yew Yin, 20-year-old-Chinese messboy, missing from the Ss. Princess Joan since early morning Jan. 15 may have been thrown overboard while the ship was on the U.S. side of the international boundary line.

This was the evidence brought out in Assize Court today at the jury trial of 25-year-old Alexander Williams, of Gould, Newfoundland.

Williams is charged with the murder of Yin, although the mess boy's body has not been found.

Today was the fifth day since the trial started but the first day any evidence had been heard by jury members. Up until now, jurors were confined to a downtown hotel room while a trial within a trial was in progress.

The jurymen appeared glad this morning to be back in court with something to do.

Capt. Archibald Phelps, master of the Joan, was the principal witness heard. He told of the midnight run from Vancouver to Victoria on Jan. 15, and of the disappearance en route of the Chinese mess boy.

"He told the court the ship was traveling the outside channel and was in American territorial water at certain specific times about which he was asked."

Crown Prosecutor Joseph McKenna sought to establish the jurisdictional right of the Canadian court to proceed with the hearing by introducing proof of the Joan's Canadian registry.

NO CHALLENGE

Defense Counsel Lloyd G. McKenzie did not challenge the jurisdiction of the court.

Capt. Phelps testified the accused Williams had been taken aboard the Joan Nov. 27, 1951, as an engine room wiper. He said Yin had been with the ship only 12 days before his disappearance.

The captain acknowledged being informed by the second mate that the messboy could not be found on the ship at about 6.30 on the morning in question.

Other witnesses called this morning were: Odo Henriksen, marine engineer, who submitted plans of the Joan; Dennis Shubrook, assistant registrar of shipping in Victoria; and Colonel Marsh, who at the time of the alleged incident was serving as purser of the Joan.

Marsh was questioned as to furnishings in cabin 362 on E deck, where the Crown alleged Williams and the messboy fought.

DEADLINE NEAR

$68,500 Goal Of Red Cross $10,000 Short

Leaders of the Victoria City and District Branch, Canadian Red Cross campaign, at noon today still needed almost $10,000 before Monday night to meet their $68,500 minimum objective within the time they had set for themselves.

Confidence was general that they would pass that total before the books are finally closed, but to meet the record of other years they required funds in a hurry. In recent years the campaign has gone over the top during March.

At mid-day audited collections amounted to $58,500. In certain outlying districts substantial sums have already been collected but have not yet been turned in to headquarters.

As they swung into the stretch drive, officials repeated their requests to Red Cross supporters who have not been approached by canvassers to send their donations into headquarters at 1046 Fort.

Pictured above, as they prepared for the round-up, were: Max Zabel, Walter Fletcher, A. Milligan, J. C. Newmarch, F. W. Ross, R. B. Matthews, C. J. Kidd, J. Jones, G. H. Nation, P. Smith, J. P. James, H. P. Hodges, Col. A. G. Styles, C. L. Whitby, W. G. Cairns, E. Wainright, Mrs. A. McHarey, J. H. Newton, Wesley McCurdy and Ernest Heybroek.

Victoria Contractor Hurt in Bridge Fall

CHEMAMINUS, March 28 (CP).—W. A. McCaffray, Victoria contractor, is in hospital here today suffering from severe bruises and shock.

He fell 18 feet Thursday from planking on the new Chemaminus River bridge, landing on a scaffold.

2 Saanich Youths Guilty Of Theft Sent to Borstal

Two Saanich youths were sentenced at Royal Oak court Thursday to terms in the Newhaven Borstal school on charges of theft.

Magistrate H. C. Hall sentenced D. F. Cousins, West Saanich Road, to three months determinate and two years less a day indeterminate, and R. J. Blythe, Elk Lake, to three months determinate and three months indeterminate on charges of theft over the value of $25.

Blythe, in addition, received a second sentence, to run concurrently with the first, of three months determinate and three months indeterminate on a charge of theft less than the value of $25.

Both youths had previously pleaded guilty to the charges.

In Saanich police court earlier, one motorist had a charge dismissed and a second was fined $35 for careless driving.

Roderick J. McDonnell, 2891 Richmond, pleaded guilty and was fined on the careless driving charge, and a similar charge was dismissed against Hardial Singh, who lives near Point Ellice Bridge.

Victoria Soldier Posted To Vital Highway Control

Lt.-Col. M. C. S. Brown, D.S.O., C.D., of the Royal Canadian Engineers, a Victorian for 34 years, has received an important posting connected with the Alaska Highway system.

Now serving with the British army of the Rhine, Col. Brown has been posted as senior highway engineer for the northwest army headquarters announced today.

He will replace Lt.-Col. J. S. Beaman, C.D., R.C.E., of Vancouver. Col. Beaman will leave the northwest highway headquarters at Whitehorse to be staff officer and director of engineering development at army H.Q., Ottawa.

COMMISSION MOVES TO END CAR SPEED TESTS ON COOK STREET

Motorists who use Cook Street as a speed highway are going to find themselves on the wrong end of a speeding ticket.

City police commissioners Thursday read a letter from P. M. Walter, secretary of City Council's streets traffic committee, objecting to the use of Cook—between Fort and Dallas Road—as a testing ground for speedometers. The route is marked off by mile posts at each end.

Commissioner Brent Murdoch suggested that suitable signs be erected to reduce speeding and urged a check on the use of the street as a testing ground for city vehicles and taxis.

"Some kiddie is going to get killed and then it will be too late," he added.

Said Mayor Claude Harrison on the use of the street as a testing ground: "Let's eliminate it."

HORN PLAYER STILL JOBLESS MAY MOVE ON

Victoria Symphony Society has met with no success in its efforts to find employment for Willi Gross.

Willi Gross is the society's latest acquisition for the orchestra's French horn section. He is a master of that difficult instrument but fears he will have to give up the local orchestra and move to another Canadian city because he has been unable to find employment here.

Gross, a 47-year-old German immigrant, is willing to take any kind of job except hard physical labor. Persons who may have a job for the man are requested to contact the symphony society office at 69523.

All But Dozen New Canadians Get Jobs Here

Victoria's "new Canadian" population at the immigration building is down to 12, and immigration officials expect that these men will be placed in employment within a week.

The number is down from a peak of about 100 over the mid-winter slack employment season. No "mass movements" of new immigrants are expected in the near future.

Date for moving immigration offices from their present location has not yet been set, and the new location has not been announced, according to John Dorman, inspector in charge of immigration here.

It is understood that the government quarantine office will move into the present immigration building.

The associated board announces results for the Royal Academy of Music, the Royal College of Music, the Royal Manchester College of Music, and the Royal Scottish Academy of Music.

Murdoch Suggests Ex-Policeman Head Auxiliary Force

A suggestion that ex-police inspector Arthur Bishop be asked to head a civil defense auxiliary police force here was made at a city police commission meeting Thursday by Commissioner Brent Murdoch.

Bishop was head of the A.R.P. here during the war.

Police Chief John Blackstock told the commission he was anxious to get started soon with the formation of the auxiliary force.

He pointed out that arrangements should be finalized in connection with compensation to those injured while on training as auxiliary policemen.

He said that defense co-ordinator Leonard Hatcher is looking into the matter now but added that "I think we should get started on organizing the force as soon as possible."

Between Ourselves

By ELIZABETH FORBES

We had a near tragedy out where I live the other day. Tragedy with a happy ending. Or so we think! It had to do with a flippant young miss in a brown feathered outfit with a faint touch of pink and beige at her throat. Also a cocky young man who just didn't look where he was going.

It was 7:15 in the morning. And, along with another early riser, I was waiting for a bus to take me to work.

The flippant young female—Jenny Robin to you—was acting much as any other young miss might do of an early spring morning. Only difference she was strutting up and down on a telephone wire, instead of the pavement. Preening her feathers instead of her curls.

But you can be sure the eternal feminine was there in the way her little eyes darted quickly around to see if she was being noticed.

Although she did turn her saucy little tail occasionally and throw a twitter or two across the street, her attention seemed to be mainly on a blossoming tree on the boulevard beside us.

Suddenly those blossoms exploded in a shower of petals. And a gay young fellow—Cock Robin, of course—in bright red shirt and shiny dark brown suit, zoomed toward the telephone wires.

You can be sure Jenny knew quite well, the moment he left his perch among the blossoms. But she slipped unconcernedly away to another telephone wire.

Her swain gave chase.

She led him a merry dance for a space of a minute or so.

Then, suddenly she swooped low beside a hedge, came up with a quick flip of her wings and headed into a driveway where the next door neighbor had parked his car the night before.

Jenny was quick on the uptake. She cleared the car with only a feather to spare.

But her pursuer, intent no doubt on the gal in front of him, never even saw the windshield.

There was a terrible thump. A soft thud. Cock Robin was out cold on the gravelled driveway.

The bus was rounding the corner at the far end of the street but the other early riser refused to leave Cock Robin out cold, for some prowling cat to devour.

She picked him up (gasping for breath) and placed him on top of the hedge.

There we left him.

Returning from work at the end of the day, the other early riser found Cock Robin had disappeared.

We wondered what had happened. Did Cock Robin get his breath back? Did he finally catch up with Jenny?

This morning we think we got our answers.

As we waited for the bus, the other early riser and myself, we heard a twittering, and from across the street, two robins started toward us. They came from the top of a flowering tree, flying together, wing almost touching wing.

Straight towards us, lower and lower, and finally skimmed almost over our heads.

There was a rush of wings. A twitter or two. And they were gone!

Was it our Jenny and her swain—come to say "thank you?" You make a guess! We did!

A Friendly Gesture Makes a Day

There's a sequel to the story I wrote about my grandmother's home-made bread.

At noon the other day, Mrs. W. R. Roskelley dashed in, dropped a parcel on the desk, waved a friendly hand and was gone before I could say "Jack Robinson."

The parcel was steaming hot. And a heavenly aroma was rising from it, and drifting out over the office.

In a minute the desk was surrounded by reporters. Their noses quivering, lean hungry looks on their faces.

Of course you've guessed the parcel held a loaf of home-made bread—hot out of the oven. And there was a big piece of butter with it, too.

We made a ritual out of unwrapping that loaf. Of doing it out in pieces, crisp crusts and soft warm centres. Of loading each piece with butter.

And then, the first bite.

Ever see a reporter with an angelic expression on his face, Mrs. Roskelley? If you had only waited a minute, you would have seen an even dozen of 'em.

A note tucked in with the parcel said: "Here's a loaf of home-made bread—hot out of the oven—in memory of your childhood."

It's just such unexpected happenings—friendly and nice—that make this business of helping to produce a newspaper—tops in any language!

Member Tells Of Visit to California

Mrs. Sydney Pickles gave details of her recent trip to California at recent meeting of Victoria Hand Weavers' Guild. She gave an account of various woven articles she had seen both in exhibition and privately.

Mrs. Hazel Hodson presided and received committee reports, including exhibitions committee of which Mrs. H. R. Clarke is convener. Plans were discussed for national exhibition in Victoria in July.

Members brought articles for Montreal exhibition of Canadian Handicrafts Guild being held April 19 to May 17. These articles will be passed on for judging before the exhibition.

Members of the Callette Club met last evening in the Oak Bay Beach Hotel to mark their annual dinner. Those attending were Mesdames Dorothy Hill, Ella Dakers, May Bowman, Pat Shone, Nancy Smith, May Sheppard, Betty Marrs, Jennie Strickland, Anna Gunniss, George Mackay, Adeline Duncan, Misses Isabelle Couper, Marion MacDonald and Lily Primrose.

Mrs. W. A. Stothers and her sister, Miss Renee Heal, entertained at a shower Wednesday evening at the home of their mother, Mrs. E. R. Heal, East Saanich Road, to honor their twin cousins, Miss Betty and Joan Anderson, whose double wedding takes place April 5. Gifts were presented to the brides-elect in a miniature duplex. Spring flowers centred the refreshment table. Guests were: Mesdames W. A. Stothers, E. J. Ferguson, A. G. Maysmith, E. Sidwell, J. R. Short, H. J. Ferguson, R. Maysmith, W. R. Coles, M. H. Sparrow, D. W. Anderson, E. Crockett, W. Boyd, O. V. Dawkins, A. Moffat, Misses Joan Sidwell, Irene Wood, Betty Outtrim and Bonny Ann Stothers.

Lodge Primrose, No. 32, Daughters of England, past presidents night, this evening, 904 Government Street. Baby and child conference clinic, St. Matthew's Church hall, Monday from 2 to 4.

Editor of Nurses' Publication a Visitor

Joseph's nurses' students council. Others at the luncheon given in Miss Kerr's honor at the Empress Hotel yesterday were Mrs. Carron B. Jameson, convener of the R.N.A. convention to be held here in May and Mrs. H. Russell, president of the Vancouver Island District of the R.N.A.

"Business and pleasure" is the way Miss Kerr describes her present trip to British Columbia, in which she is visiting nurses' training schools to acquaint them with the benefits of their magazine, the Canadian Nurse.

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Miss Tatlow in Washington

Friends here will be interested in the news, brought to Victoria recently by her father, Mr. Kenneth G. Tatlow, that Miss Anne Tatlow is now a successful commercial artist in Washington, D.C., where her mother, Mrs. Eric McKibben, also lives. Miss Tatlow, great-granddaughter of Vancouver pioneers, the late Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Tatlow, lived with her mother in Victoria for some years. She graduated from Oak Bay High School here, the California School of Fine Arts, San Francisco, and Montreal School of Fine Arts.

Symphony Patrons Invited

Patrons of the Victoria Symphony Society who have received invitations for the reception at the Nottingham Drive home of Dr. and Mrs. R. J. Wright, following final concert of the Victoria Symphony orchestra on Monday evening, include Mr. and Mrs. Percy George, Mr. and Mrs. John Hart, Mrs. J. O. Cameron and Mrs. Will Spencer.

The reception is being arranged by members of the women's committee of the symphony society.

Tea at Oak Bay Beach Hotel

Guests of honor at the tea to be given by the University Women's Club in the Oak Bay Beach Hotel Saturday from 3 to 5 will be Mrs. H. E. Young and Miss Jeannette Cann, charter and life members of the club, Alderman Margaret Christie, Mrs. Grace Shaw and Mrs. W. W. McGill.

Mrs. J. F. K. English and Mrs. T. B. Williams will receive guests and those presiding at the tea table will be Hon. Nancy Hodges, Dr. Olga Jardine, Miss Margaret Clay and Mrs. K. O. Wright.

Serviteurs will be Mrs. H. R. Turner, Mrs. M. F. Smith, Mrs. B. E. Porritt, Mrs. G. R. Easer, Mrs. A. A. C. Harris, Miss Evelyn MacQueen and Miss Muriel Johnson. Proceeds from the tea will go towards the club's scholarship fund.

Miss Anne O'Halloran has returned to her home on Beach Drive, following a two-months visit in California.

Miss Vivian Notley, April bride-elect, was honored at a shower recently in the Neil Street home of her mother, Mrs. E. Notley. The guest of honor was presented with two violets and daffodil corsages and a corsage of roses and violets from various friends. Gifts were concealed in a decorated box. An arrangement of daffodils and violets with pink bows centred the lace-covered refreshment table. Guests were Mesdames L. McLaren, D. McDonald, A. G. Maysmith, E. W. Jones, W. Jackson, J. Townsend, R. Tippet, G. N. Baker, C. Shipley and G. Shipley.

Visited By District Governor

Victoria Quota Club met recently to honor their district governor, Mrs. Alice Vitus, Klamath Falls, in the home of Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy. Mrs. Vitus made her first visit to Canada last June when she attended the convention in Quebec City. She later took her governor's sennary training in Saskatoon.

Dr. Henrietta Anderson reported on ladies' welcome room, mentioning that approximately 125 women frequented the room. It was announced that the convention will be held in Coronado, Calif., in June.

To Be Married in Late April

The wedding is foretold of Edith Irene Holman, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Holman, 671 Lamson Street, to Kenneth Charles Clarke, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Clarke, 251 Tolcross Avenue. The marriage will take place on April 26 at 8 p.m. in St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church, Esquimalt. (Photos by Chevron Studio.)

Miss Elenore Straith and Miss Margaret Rainey flew to Seattle on Thursday where they will attend the reunion of the San Juan International Camp for Boys and Girls, being held at the Seattle Yacht Club today.

BEDTIME STORY

by Thornton W. Burgess

The trouble with curiosity is that too often it is uncontrolled. Then it leads straight into trouble more often than not. Just ask Peter Rabbit. He knows. But Peter isn't the only one among the Green Forest folk and the Green Meadow folk, goodness, no!

Just now Buster Bear was curious. Buster Bear had been awake and out and about only a short time since his long winter sleep. You know he spends much of the winter asleep.

The long sleep in which several folks in fur, and many others, such as members of the Snake family and Grandfather Frog's family and others, spend the winter.

Hasty Repairs Save Mailboat During Storm

KODIAK, Alaska, March 28 (AP).—Repairs at sea by crew members during a heavy storm with 80-mile winds averted a possible sea tragedy for 27 seamen and passengers aboard the 130-foot Seward-Kodiak Aleutian chain mailboat Garland, it was learned Thursday.

The vessel radioed U.S. Coast Guard headquarters here for help, reporting it was drifting in heavy seas south of Kodiak Island and its steering gear was damaged.

It finally limped into Port Alitak, on the south end of Kodiak Island.

A Coast Guard cutter has been ordered to escort the vessel to Kodiak for repairs. The Garland is owned by the Berger Transportation Co., Seattle.

E. K. MacDougall, general manager of the transportation company, said in Seattle that the Garland, a 148-footer, was due in Seward next Sunday. It normally carries 14 crew members and 12 passengers, stopping at 54 ports with mail and freight.

MacDougall said the Garland, which sails once a month from Seattle on the 5,400-mile voyage, is the only passenger vessel giving regular year-round service west of Kodiak.

B.C. Auto Club to 'Lobby' Candidates

VANCOUVER, March 28 (CP).—The British Columbia Automobile Association will "lobby" every candidate in the forthcoming provincial election in its drive to bring automobile licenses down to $10.

Directors of the association Thursday night gave this specific direction to its legislation committee.

Misadventure Jury Verdict

VANCOUVER, March 28 (CP).—A verdict of "unnatural death by misadventure" was returned Thursday by a coroner's jury inquiring into the death of Mrs. Velma Matilda Collins, 35.

The jury decided death was the result of chronic alcoholism and pneumonia. Mrs. Collins was found in her hotel room bed Monday and was pronounced dead on arrival at hospital.

HISTORIC PORT
Digby in Nova Scotia was named in honor of the admiral who commanded the British navy that brought loyalist refugees to the port in 1785.

260-Lb. Policeman Finds Car Too Small; He'll Quit

NEW BALTIMORE, Mich., March 28 (UP).—Bulky Charles Ackley said today he's going to quit the police force because an undersize scout car has changed him from a policeman to a Pied Piper.

"I have to grunt to squeeze into it," the 260-pound Ackley said, "and wherever I go the kids follow me around, laughing and yelling 'Hen-reece!'"

Also following Ackley Thursday was a mock scout car driven by a disgruntled auto dealer, Ted Brousseau, whose bid to furnish the new car for the force wasn't accepted.

On Brousseau's car, a bamboo fishing pole served for a radio antenna and a battered telephone for a radio. A sign on the side said "please" instead of "police."

Bringing up the rear of the parade was councilman Fred Blay, who sold the midget auto to the police force. Pointing at the snickering Brousseau rolling by in his "please" car, Blay shouted, "Arrest that man for impersonating a policeman."

Lloyd Rivard, chief of the village's three-man force, declined to arrest Brousseau.

Rivard said he sympathized with Ackley but that the force is stuck with its new car.

Poles Indignant Over Canada's Stand On Their 'Lost' National Treasures

OTTAWA, March 28 (CP).—The External Affairs department said Thursday that Communist Poland has delivered another blast about Canada's possession of the Polish treasures but nobody seemed particularly excited about it. One official reaction was that Warsaw is ensuring that the issue is kept alive.

External Affairs Minister Pearson's reaction was "no comment." An official source said the note will be "looked into" and answered in due time, probably with a reiteration of Canada's stand that the federal government is not responsible for the national treasures, brought here during the last war for safekeeping.

The government's position is that Poland is free to take action in the Canadian courts in an attempt to recover the priceless and aged relics.

The Poles, in a note delivered to the Canadian embassy in Warsaw, rejected this stand with "indignation" and demanded immediate return of the treasures.

The bulk of them now are said to be in the provincial museum in Quebec City with the Duplessis government as their guardian.

In Quebec, Premier Duplessis maintained his previously expressed stand that the treasures will remain in the hands of the Quebec government until "competent tribunals" decide who should have them.

'CAT SCRATCH' FEVER SPREADS

LONDON, March 28 (Reuters).—A 38-year-old British housewife turned a bright shade of red after being bitten on the hand by a kitten—and was probably the first victim here of "cat scratch fever" which is common in France.

In the medical magazine The Lancet Dr. Oliver Garai says the woman was ill for more than two months, and the fever was almost certainly caused by an unknown virus.

City Hears of Bids for Robert House

City Council wants a full report on cost of rehabilitation of Prince Robert House.

Offer of M. F. Loughheed to rent a rehabilitated Robert House at $350 a month for an English tea room was referred to the lands committee.

At the same time council recommended to the committee that cost of repairs be obtained from the building inspector.

Ald. Percy Scourrah moved inquiring into cost of repairs. Such data would aid the organizations as well as council, he said.

Denmark Restores Capital Punishment

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, March 28 (AP).—Parliament voted Wednesday night to make "gross crimes" punishable by death during wartime and any period of occupation. Denmark abolished capital punishment in 1930 after 32 years without an execution.

Japan's Parliament Approves Big Budget

TOKYO, March 28 (AP).—Japan's parliament Thursday approved a $2,368,611 national budget—biggest since the Second World War—by a vote of 135 to 79. Most controversial item was $503,389,000 for defense. The opposition said it was unconstitutional. The constitution forbids maintenance of armed forces.

Bears Defeat Bird Ruggers

VANCOUVER, March 28 (BUP).—The University of California won the third game of their World Cup English Rugby series Thursday, beating the University of British Columbia, 11-3.

California leads the four-game series two games to one, with the fourth and deciding game to be held Saturday in Vancouver.

Help, No Dole For City Poor Mayor's Plan

The city of Victoria has a duty to look after its poor and destitute, Mayor Claude Harrison told council Thursday night.

He suggested that some thought be given to getting them jobs rather than giving a "dole."

"Tackle the thing now before it gets acute," he said.

The matter was referred to the welfare committee.

Ald. Waldo Skillings urged that care be taken not to conflict with the provincial government inasmuch as they pay 80 per cent of the city's social assistance costs.

TSAR STALIN

Turning Point Came in 1917

By REBECCA WEST

Chapter V in a Series of Eight

In 1917, when the Tsardom fell, Stalin's luck turned. All political prisoners were freed, and he made his way to St. Petersburg, which he found in a state of chaos. A Liberal Provisional Government was battling for power with a leaderless Soviet (Council) of Workers and Peasants. Everybody was distraught, including the members of the Bolshevik Party.

Lenin was about to start on his journey from Switzerland through Germany, but he did not arrive for three weeks. During this period Stalin used his authority as a member of the Central Committee to bully his fellow-Bolsheviks into calm and coherence, and when Lenin got off the train he found the party ready for him to use as an instrument for seizing power.

For Lenin, took no part whatsoever in overthrowing the Tsardom. That had all been done before Lenin returned to Russia. Nor is it true that he found a situation in which nobody but his party was able to assume his responsibility. What is true is that he applied the wrecking technique which he had perfected at many congresses to put out of action all other parties who might have taken power, but were at a disadvantage before him because they were thinking not of wrecking but of establishing national unity and a democratic Russia. Lenin rewarded Stalin for his services by making him commissar for nationalities to deal with the non-Russian peoples who had been absorbed by the imperialist Tsardom.

Stalin's Error of Judgment

Straightway he ran into trouble. On Lenin's instructions he announced to the Finns, the Lithuanians, the Letts and the Estonians that now they could have their freedom. He and Lenin expected that these people would reject the gift and beg to be allowed to remain within a Socialist Russia.

But they did nothing of the sort. They thanked the Bolsheviks politely and settled down as sturdy independent and definitely anti-Socialist states.

Stalin never forgave them. Then civil war broke out in Russia. At Brest-Litovsk Lenin signed a humiliating peace treaty on terms dictated by the Germans, and many Russians took this as a sign of his incapacity to rule, though he could have done nothing else.

They rose against him, and again he could do nothing else but suppress the rising. Bolshevik conduct, however, passed outside the sphere of historical necessity, when an attempt was made on Lenin's life, and Stalin, now commissar at Tsaritsyn, sent a telegram promising to answer this attack by "the organization of open and systematic massing of terror against the bourgeoisie and its agents." He kept his word.

At Tsaritsyn a significant event occurred. He fell into a quarrel with Trotsky's policy of meeting the Red army's lack of officers by putting the troops under the control of Tsarist officers controlled by Bolshevik commissars. Stalin joined with some of his old "expropriated" friends in hankering after a guerrilla army. But Lenin had to support Trotsky, who by now shown that he possessed great military genius.

Later on there came the war with Poland, in which Lenin made the same mistake he had made with the Finns and their neighbors and underrated national feeling. He sent the Red army deep into Poland, on the assumption that the Polish peasants would rush out and welcome them as deliverers. In the resultant disaster Stalin showed noticeable incompetence.

Three Points in His Favor

In 1919 Lenin founded a fantastic institution called the Commissariat of the Workers' and Peasants' Inspectorate, which was to reform the Soviet bureaucracy, which contained over half a million old Tsarist civil servants and naturally preserved the Tsarist inefficiency. This was doomed to failure, since the staff appointed to reform the officials had necessarily to be officials themselves, but Stalin was plainly unable to avert this doom.

How, then, since Stalin showed to advantage in none of these posts, did he rise to the summit of the Communist hierarchy and in 1922 become general secretary of the party?

There are three reasons. First, it was a great relief to Lenin and the Politburo to know that they had a reliable party henchman who was a Georgian, an Asiatic, and could deal with the non-Russian people who formed almost half of the population of the Soviet Union.

Secondly, he never forgot a name, and could tell Lenin all about everybody. From 1919 he was the permanent liaison officer between the Politburo and the Orgburo, which was a body in charge of the entire personnel of the Party. Also he turned the Workers' and Peasants' Inspectorate into a detective agency working on the civil service.

Thirdly, he obviously had a high survival value. It was true of him that he was literally a man who could keep his head when all about him were losing theirs and blaming it on him. In such a world as these people were making a man like to have associates with this talent.

But it is also probable that Lenin had never meant to leave Stalin in supreme command of the Soviet Union. We forget nowadays how far from being an old man Lenin was at the time he arranged for Stalin to be General Secretary. He looked forward to having many years of working-life before him, during which he would be able to exploit the usefulness of this tricky subordinate, while keeping him under control.

It is, therefore, probably that when he arranged for Stalin to be General Secretary he looked forward to having many years of working-life before him, during which he would be able to exploit the usefulness of this tricky subordinate, while keeping him under control.

URE HITS AT BEEF PRICE SUPPORT PLAN

Alberta Minister Critical of Federal Proposal to Establish Floor Prices

EDMONTON, March 28 (CP)—Agriculture Minister David Ure today sharply criticized a proposal to place a floor price on beef if the provinces drop restrictions on movement of livestock.

Federal officials indicated yesterday the government will place such a plan before the provincial agriculture ministers in Ottawa April 2.

Ure said he doubted such a plan could be effective in having interprovincial livestock bans lifted.

"British Columbia is able to keep its beef prices up without a floor price being set by the Dominion," he said. "If they keep our beef off the western market their prices naturally are going to remain high."

Alberta and Saskatchewan, he pointed out, have the most livestock to sell. These two provinces have no embargoes to take off.

"It's all right to agree to a horse trade if you have a horse to trade," he said.

Ure, who will attend the Dominion-provincial meeting in Ottawa, indicated he will not be accompanied by other members of the Alberta agriculture department.

"If all we are going to get is glorified public announcements, then 4,000 miles is far enough to go without taking anyone with me," he said.

Red-Sponsored Iranian Riots Claim 5 Lives

Germ War Charge Sparks Wild Melee

TEHRAN, Iran, March 28 (AP)—Bloody rioting erupted in Tehran today following a meeting sponsored by Communists to support Russian charges that the United States is using germ warfare in Korea. At least five persons, including a girl and two policemen were reported killed. One unconfirmed rumor said there were about 20 dead.

The violent 15-minute battle erupted when a small group of bitter anti-Communist Pan-Iranians jeered at 3,000 to 5,000 parading members of the organization for democratic youth, a front group of the outlawed Communist-backed Tudeh party.

Police intervened, bloodying the heads of many of the Communist group. This group had met earlier, with police permission, in Fawzieh Square to support Russia's germ warfare charges. Then, shouting "Down With America" and praising Stalin, they began parading back toward the centre of the city. The police had given no approval for a parade and called out reinforcements.

After the clash, police took truckloads of the wounded away to hospitals.

Most of the fighting was with sticks, fists and stones, but police started firing into the air to bring the rioters under control. Assistant Police, Chief Gen. Daneshpour said the Communist-led group started firing at police first.

Expelled Rail Union Official Flays Mosher

OTTAWA, March 28 (CP)—James E. McGuire, expelled secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (C.B.R.E.), let fly today with a series of charges against A. R. Mosher, president of the C.B.R.E. and Canadian Congress of Labor.

McGuire, whose long feud with his president resulted in his expulsion from the C.B.R.E. this week, accused the veteran president of "treacherous action" against his membership in wage negotiations and, among other things, of—

"Laziness and ineffectual administration, wasteful and unwarranted use of funds, singular lack of any form of constructive leadership, collaboration with a clique to pay themselves substantial salary increases up to $30 per month without the knowledge of the membership."

McGuire said he had written a letter to Mosher last week, but it had been ignored. He said he was now writing a book about the C.B.R.E. and its president.

Emergency Repair Crews Work at Gaps

MEDICINE HAT, Alta., March 28 (CP)—Spring flood waters were rising today in southern Alberta, forcing evacuation of some families playing havoc with railroad and highway transportation.

A washout on the C.P.R. main line near Bearsapaw, 15 miles west of Calgary, has held up all transcontinental passenger trains since 1 p.m. Thursday.

Emergency repair crews are attempting to build a temporary trestle bridge across the gap, but progress is slow due to ice-bound soil. The gap won't be breached until nightfall, at the earliest.

Meanwhile, train passengers, both east and west, are being conveyed from Cochrane to Calgary by bus. Three westbound and two eastbound trains were being held up by the washout.

Flood waters Thursday night washed out the banks under the C.P.R. tracks at five places in the Lehighville division. Two passenger trains and a number of freight trains were delayed. The washouts are expected to be fixed by late today.

On Medicine Hat's eastern outskirts, four families were evacuated from homes in the flooded Purnall subdivision Thursday night.

Still-rising creek waters today endangered another seven homes in the low-lying industrial section.

No. 1 highway east of Dunmore, about six miles east of Medicine Hat, was under two feet of water for about half a mile.

Straight 10-Cent Toll Will Be Order April 6

By AILEEN CAMPBELL

Increased bus fares will go into effect in Greater Victoria April 6.

Public Utilities Commission today announced its unanimous decision approving application of the B.C. Electric Railway Co. for the increases.

Victorians will pay a straight 10 cent cash fare instead of the present three tickets for a quarter.

Here are the present and new urban fares for Greater Victoria.

Zone No. 1	Present	Proposed
Adult cash fare	10c	10c
Adult ticket fare	3 for 25c (8.33)	None
Children's cash fare	4c	5c
Children's ticket fare	8 for 25c (3.125)	6 for 25c (4.17)
Weekly Pass	$1.75	$2.00
Zone No. 2	Present	Proposed
Adult cash fare	10c	13c
Adult ticket fare	None	4 for 50c (12.5)
Children's cash fare	5c	6c
Children's ticket fare	10 for 40c (4.0)	5 for 25c (5.00)
Zone No. 3	Present	Proposed
Adult cash fare	15c	15c
Adult ticket fare	8c	8c
Children's cash fare	10 for 65c (6.5)	10 for 70c (7.0)

The company's application covering transit on the mainland also was approved with the exception of the effective date—the company requested March 17 and children's fares in New Westminster and North Vancouver.

Perry E. George, chairman of the P.U.C., handed down the decision. An accompanying release stated:

LOSS SUFFERED
"The commission has very carefully reviewed the whole matter in all its aspects and the following facts are evident:
"First, in 1951, the transit services on the mainland and in Greater Victoria took in less than their operating costs."

"Further considering the transit, electric and gas services as a whole, the 1951 operations on the mainland and in Vancouver—land both showed earnings substantially less than the figure which the commission fixed in 1943 as a fair return, and which the company in 1951 applied to have increased—a matter which is still under consideration by the commission."

The P.U.C. stated the proposed increases will result in the operation of all B.C.E. services still yielding in 1952 substantially less than the fair return fixed by the P.U.C. in 1943.

"It is a prime requisite that the company's earnings be such as to encourage new financing on reasonable terms," the commission stated, referring to financing necessary for a proposed expansion program.

IN PUBLIC INTEREST
"For these reasons the commission is of the unanimous opinion that it is in the public interest to consent to the filing by the company of tariffs that will put the new fares into force substantially as proposed. They will become effective on Sunday, April 6."

Only change in the tariffs proposed by the company relates to children's fares.

North Vancouver and New Westminster, where the present children's fares are 10 for 25 cents will have new fare of eight for 25 cents instead of six for 25 as first proposed by the company.

The P.U.C. in its statement referred to public hearings held in Vancouver and Victoria. It said both before and after hearings, the commission's engineering and accounting staff carried out checking of figures which accompanied the applications and the evidence given at the hearings.

Reasons given by the company for revision as summarized in the P.U.C. statement were:

Increased operating costs since 1943 in 1943, 1944, 1945, 1946, 1947, 1948, 1949, and Vancouver Island, Oct. 1949; further increases in wages.

URE HITS AT BEEF PRICE SUPPORT PLAN

Alberta Minister Critical of Federal Proposal to Establish Floor Prices

EDMONTON, March 28 (CP)—Agriculture Minister David Ure today sharply criticized a proposal to place a floor price on beef if the provinces drop restrictions on movement of livestock.

Federal officials indicated yesterday the government will place such a plan before the provincial agriculture ministers in Ottawa April 2.

Ure said he doubted such a plan could be effective in having interprovincial livestock bans lifted.

"British Columbia is able to keep its beef prices up without a floor price being set by the Dominion," he said. "If they keep our beef off the western market their prices naturally are going to remain high."

Alberta and Saskatchewan, he pointed out, have the most livestock to sell. These two provinces have no embargoes to take off.

"It's all right to agree to a horse trade if you have a horse to trade," he said.

Ure, who will attend the Dominion-provincial meeting in Ottawa, indicated he will not be accompanied by other members of the Alberta agriculture department.

"If all we are going to get is glorified public announcements, then 4,000 miles is far enough to go without taking anyone with me," he said.

Red-Sponsored Iranian Riots Claim 5 Lives

Germ War Charge Sparks Wild Melee

TEHRAN, Iran, March 28 (AP)—Bloody rioting erupted in Tehran today following a meeting sponsored by Communists to support Russian charges that the United States is using germ warfare in Korea. At least five persons, including a girl and two policemen were reported killed. One unconfirmed rumor said there were about 20 dead.

The violent 15-minute battle erupted when a small group of bitter anti-Communist Pan-Iranians jeered at 3,000 to 5,000 parading members of the organization for democratic youth, a front group of the outlawed Communist-backed Tudeh party.

Police intervened, bloodying the heads of many of the Communist group. This group had met earlier, with police permission, in Fawzieh Square to support Russia's germ warfare charges. Then, shouting "Down With America" and praising Stalin, they began parading back toward the centre of the city. The police had given no approval for a parade and called out reinforcements.

After the clash, police took truckloads of the wounded away to hospitals.

Most of the fighting was with sticks, fists and stones, but police started firing into the air to bring the rioters under control. Assistant Police, Chief Gen. Daneshpour said the Communist-led group started firing at police first.
